WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) and Styles Bridges (R-NH) defended Saturday on behalf of a Congress member's job the practice of intercession with government regulatory agencies.

Clues To Suicide Of Fisherman Puzzle Officers

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP) — A fisherman killed himself Saturday while a state trooper was tracking him by a trail of blood left by the angler's slashed wrist. State police were puzzled by the scanty clues—an auto registration and driver's license in the name of Robert S. Kenny, 31, Lima, Ohio, a bloody sleeping bag, a box and arrows and fishing gear. The man first aroused suspicion when he started grappling with Ralph Cox, a guard from the nearby state penal farm, who stopped beside the man's parked car halfway between Greencastle and Putnamville. Noticing the man's slashed wrist, Cox went to call state police, but the man was missing when Cox returned with state trooper Howard Brackney. They followed a trail of blood across a field, but hearing a shot, they returned and found the man who had shot himself in the mouth with a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun from the police car.

Bitter Fighting Rages In Lebanese Cities

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Bitter fighting raged Saturday in the Lebanese port cities of Tripoli and Sidon. Beirut was quiet during the day but darkness brought a flareup of scattered shooting.

As the revolt dragged through its 50th day in this little Middle East nation, Prime Minister Sami Solh declared the U.N.-observer group sent here is not equal to the job of halting what he termed increasing infiltration.

Lebanon's government has charged the United Arab Republic is smuggling arms and men into the country.

On the fighting fronts, rebel forces attacked government troops in a battle that lasted through the night and into Saturday morning in Tripoli. Reports from the coastal city said eight persons were killed and about 20 wounded.

Rebels using mortars and hand grenades attacked army positions, setting fire to one of the city's main squares.

In the southern seaport of Sidon, troops and rebels fought what an army communiqué described as a heavy battle. It said one captain was killed and casualties on the rebel side were unknown.

Solh said in an interview with The Associated Press that the smuggling of arms and infiltration have increased since U.N. observers arrived in Lebanon June 12. Solh reiterated that he believes a U.N. police force is necessary to halt infiltration. He said he had told U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld a police force is needed when the U.N. official visited Lebanon this week, but that he did not hand a formal request.

Alfred Noyes, Noted English Poet, Dies

ISLE OF WIGHT, England (AP) — Poet Alfred Noyes, whose poem "The Highwayman" was made into a movie, died in a hospital Saturday. He was 77.

One of Britain's most prolific writers, Noyes was known for his poetry throughout the English-speaking world, especially the United States where he lectured extensively and taught for 10 years.

His best-known work is "The Barrel Organ" which contains the familiar line "Come down to Kew in Lillie Time." But it was "The Highwayman," a poem about a romantic robber, that furnished the basis for a film story.

Few poets looked less like the public conception of a sensitive versemaker than Noyes. He was 6 feet tall, weighed 200 pounds, and was broad-shouldered, clean-shaven and short-haired.

Teams Of Specialists Probe Jet Crash That Took 15 Lives

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — Ten teams of specialists began a thorough investigation Saturday of a jet Stratotanker crash that took 15 lives early Friday on a planned speed flight to London.

The groups met separately and then went on to the scene of the crash—a cornfield about a mile and a half from this air base.

U.S. To Contact Cuban Rebels For Release Of Men

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The United States decided Saturday to deal directly with Fidel Castro's rebels for the release of 10 American and 2 Canadian engineers held in the hot mountain jungles of northeastern Cuba.

U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith ordered U.S. Consul Park Wollan to attempt to make contact with the rebels from Moa, the north coast city where a band of 200 rebels kidnapped the men Thursday night.

Emissaries of the Moa Mining Co. went into the mountains Friday but apparently failed in their attempt to win release of the men. The engineers were working on a company building site.

In Washington, the State Department said it had a report that the rebels would release the men soon. Press Officer Francis Tully said the report had come from sources in the United States purporting to represent the Cuban rebels.

A Cuban driver for the Moa Co. who had been taken along by the kidnappers, has returned and reported the captives are unharmed and are being well cared for. He said he also was advised the rebels will release them soon.

The wife of one of the kidnapped men said she had been told by a rebel leader that the men were being well cared for and would be released in a few days.

The specialists include such teams as firing safety research, structures and dynamics, explosion and fire pattern, power plants, fuel systems, electronics, flight operation, survival and oxygen, maintenance and hydraulics.

Meanwhile, special memorial services were planned for Sunday morning at the base chapel for the dead which included six newsmen.

Brig. Gen. Donald W. Saunders, who was in command of the four-plane group that planned an assault on the New York to London flight record, was in the ill-fated KC-135. Funeral services for him will be held in his home town, Athens, N.Y., on Monday.

Four of the huge planes had been scheduled to make the trans-ocean flight. Two got off safely but the crash ended further takeoffs.

The two jet tankers which made record-breaking flights to London are scheduled to begin their return runs early Sunday morning.

The first-Alpha will take off at 7:50 a.m., EDT, from Brize Norton air base with the expected time of arrival at Floyd Bennett Field, New York, set for 1:54 p.m. EDT.

Fifteen minutes later, at 8:05 a.m. EDT, the Bravo will set off for Westover, and is expected to touch down at 3:25 p.m., EDT.

U.S. Ends Fiscal Year With 3-Billion Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is due to wind up this fiscally unhappy year at midnight Monday with a deficit of 2 3/4 to 3 billion dollars.

High administration officials predicted this Saturday. Looming ahead for fiscal 1959 beginning Tuesday is the even more dismal prospect of red ink aggregating 11 billion dollars, or perhaps close to 12 billion.

This would carry the federal budget farther off balance than in any year since World War II, not excepting the period of the Korean War.

The business upturn which the administration expects this fall could improve the budget outlook, but not substantially. The lag in payment of corporate income taxes would delay much of the effect of a recovery until fiscal 1960.

Even for the bookkeeping year now closing, however, officials acknowledge that present guesses may be wide of the mark by as much as a few hundred million dollars. It will be two or three weeks before the final vouchers can be tabulated at the Treasury.

The business recession was the chief villain in transforming fiscal 1958 from what the Eisenhower administration expected to be its third successive year of balanced budgets into the start of a new period of deficit financing.

Income tax and corporation tax payments have dwindled with the drop in personal income and business profits. President Eisenhower's original estimate of $73,600,000,000 in receipts this fiscal year has shrunk to roughly 70 billion dollars. Spending is expected to be in the neighborhood of 73 billion dollars.

One official in close touch with budget developments said that a 2 1/2-billion-dollar deficit is "as close as we can come now" to an estimate for the past 12 months.

Another high source, equally close to the income and outgo picture, reported that a three-billion-dollar deficit is "as good as any figure we've seen." Experts of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation made a still higher guess: they now believe a $3,400,000,000 figure would be reasonable.

Administration advisers expect no gain in total revenues in the fiscal year ahead. In fact, a deficit of $3 billion is expected.

VFW Maps Plans To Win Approval Of Korean Bonus

CHICAGO (AP) — State leaders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday will map their campaign this fall to win Illinois voters' approval of the Korean veterans' bonus proposition at the Nov. 4 referendum.

The bill, passed last year by the Illinois Legislature subject to referendum, would provide 75 million dollars for payments to men in the armed services between June 27, 1950, and June 27, 1953.

The VFW's 38-member state council of administration, composed of 12 state officers and 16 district commanders, is aiming for approval Nov. 4 by a majority of those voting on the proposal as required to make it law.

Under the bill, which would be financed by a one cent cigarette tax, men who were stationed in the United States would receive $10 a month for their tenure. Men serving in Korea would get an additional $10, and widows of men who died in military service would receive $1,000.

BULLETIN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Twenty-nine American sailors from the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo were reported missing Saturday night after a picnic trip off the base.

The National Broadcasting Co. said in New York it had received a report from its Havana correspondent that the sailors had been seized by Cuban rebels.

The sailors left the base in southeastern Cuba for a picnic trip and were overdue at 7 p.m. Search parties were sent out and found the bus the sailors left in on a road north of the naval base.

Special Memorial Services Planned For Jet Victims

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — Special memorial services will be held Sunday at the base chapel for the 15 men who were killed early Friday in a crash of a jet Stratotanker.

Chaplain Col. William F. Taylor will conduct one service at 11 a.m. EDT and Chaplain Maj. Lawrence A. Dickson J.R. a second service at 11:45 a.m. It was explained two services will be held because of the many persons who may want to attend.

There are more than 12,000 trailer parks in the United States.

Soviet Requests U.S. Clarify Conditions For Geneva Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia called for a full understanding with the United States on cessation of nuclear tests in connection with the beginning of technical talks July 1 in Geneva.

The phrasing of a statement Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed to U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson indicated the Kremlin had decided to participate in the scheduled opening of the Geneva talks. But it also indicated the Soviets would still press for an agreement on suspension of tests along with discussion of control.

The Soviet Union earlier had hinted it would not attend the talks unless its terms were met, but the United States had replied so far as it is concerned the talks will be convened as scheduled.

It was learned earlier Saturday that the Swiss Embassy has issued visas to the Soviet delegation of technicians.

A Radio Moscow broadcast said of the latest exchange:

"The Soviet government in an aide memoire to the U. S. government states that the question posed in its aide memoire of June 25—as to whether the U. S. government confirmed that the meeting of experts should be subordinate to the solving of the task of the universal and instant suspension of nuclear weapon tests—has remained unanswered and that no clarification has been given on the U. S. position on the matter."

It said the United States "evaded making a statement on its position on the main issue—namely the aim which the meeting of experts should serve."

"Naturally," the note said, "the decision on the suspension of tests should be taken by the governments themselves, and not by experts whose tasks include the preparation of control over compliance with the agreement on the discontinuation of nuclear tests."

Report Craft Burned, Nine Crewmen Seized

MOSCOW (AP)—A U.S. Air Force plane with nine men aboard was forced down by Soviet fighter planes Friday night inside Soviet territory, the Soviet Union said Saturday night. The Soviets reported the plane burned and the crewmen were seized.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was said to have assured U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson the men are alive.

A note handed by Gromyko to Thompson protested what the Soviets called a crude violation of their frontier. They said the plane had crossed the Soviet Armenian border and had flown up to 105 miles inside Soviet territory. They said the plane traveled almost 50 miles more before it was forced to land.

The protest note said the plane was a four-engine military craft of the U.S. Air Force and that its crew were U.S. military uniforms.

The U.S. Defense Department in Washington said Saturday night it had received a report that a transport type aircraft, believed to be a C-118 with nine persons aboard, was unreported on a flight from Nicosia, Cyprus, to Teheran, Iran, by way of Turkey. The C-118 is a military version of a Douglas DC-4 four-engine transport.

The department said it had no further details immediately. Thompson, asked for comment, said he had no details or information other than the statements made in the Soviet note.

Embassy sources, who said the plane may have lost its way on its way on a flight to or from adjoining Turkey, said there was no indication of the type of plane or its mission.

There was no indication whether the plane was forced down by gunfire after pursuit. But it was learned later that Thompson asked Gromyko: "Are the men alive?"

The foreign minister replied: "Yes."

In Wiesbaden, Germany, headquarters of the U.S. Air Force in Europe said it had no knowledge of any of its planes being missing and referred further queries to the U.S. State Department.

In Washington, the State Department press office said the department had not yet received the

Ellender, Benson Team Up For New Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unusual team play between Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) may push a new federal farm bill through Congress.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he was not surprised at the 214-171 House vote last week that junked an omnibus farm bill vigorously opposed by Benson.

This opened the door for a less sweeping Senate farm bill—limited to cotton, rice, corn and other livestock feed grains—which has Benson's blessing.

In other years, Benson usually has been battling to revise farm bills that came out of Ellender's committee. This time, the secretary called the Senate bill workable legislation and in the long-term interests of the farmers.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), senior GOP Farm Committee member, agreed with Ellender that the Senate should act on its farm measure as soon as possible. Major provisions of the Senate bill, by commodities:

Corn — All planting controls would be removed and growers could get a government price of 90 per cent of the farm price average of the three past years, or not less than $1.10 a bushel.

Cotton — A minimum allotment of 16 million acres would go into operation with no reductions for growers with allotments of 10 acres or less. Farmers could get a support of from 75 to 90 per cent of parity if they stayed within allotments, parity being a standard calculated to be fair in relation to farmers' costs.

Rice — The national allotment would be not less than 1,600,000 acres with supports from 75 to 90 per cent of parity for 1959 and 1960 crops.

Feed grains — There would be no planting controls on grain sorghums, rye, oats, barley and other livestock feed grains. Their support price would be tied to that of corn, except it could not be less than 60 per cent of parity.

State Bar Assn. Opposes Curbing Court's Powers

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Bar Assn. Saturday came out against Sen. William E. Jenner's bill to curb powers of the United States Supreme Court.

The association's board of governors declared the bill would endanger individuals' constitutional rights, subject the judicial branch of government to legislative interference, and lead to legal confusion.

The bill introduced by Jenner, Republican of Indiana, would strip the Supreme Court of jurisdiction in cases of efforts by local, state, and federal governments to curb communism and subversion. The board of governors elected Charles C. Braggle Jr. of Springfield as treasurer to replace C. Terry Linder, also of Springfield, appointed to the board of governors.

Edward B. Love of Monmouth was reelected secretary.

Star Of Russian Ballet Caught Shoplifting At Brussels Fair

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The star of the Russian Bolshoi Ballet at the Brussels World Fair has been caught shoplifting in a Brussels department store, police said Saturday.

Olya Lepeshinskaya, once Stalin's favorite ballerina, was halted by a store detective as she was about to leave Friday. Police said she had admitted taking an umbrella, two pairs of gloves, cuff links, and some tape. The fiftyish ballerina begged in French and broken English not to be taken to police headquarters. She said she was due at a ballet rehearsal. She did not appear at Friday night's performance at the fair, although she was released after questioning at police headquarters and the Palace of Justice. A spokesman for the department store, L'Innovation, said no decision has been made about prosecuting Miss Lepeshinskaya. He added, however, that legal action is rarely taken against first offenders.

Thus an international incident such as the case of the Soviet woman discus thrower may be avoided. Two years ago Nina Ponomareva, Soviet Olympic discus thrower, was charged with lifting five cheap hats in London. The Russians called off an athletic meet with the British, and Miss Ponomareva hid out in the Soviet Embassy.

The case finally was settled when Miss Ponomareva appeared unexpectedly in court and entered a denial. She was convicted but released after the Soviet Embassy had paid court costs.

Adopt $873,000 Jersey-Greene School Budget

JERSEYVILLE—The Board of Education of Community Unit District No. 100 Jersey and Greene Counties adopted the levy and budget for coming school term at their meeting Wednesday evening.

The total educational budget, exclusive of an estimated balance of $10,000, is $873,000. The Municipal Retirement Budget is $10,000; Transportation, $89,000 and Building Fund $120,000.

The anticipated expenditure of the Educational Fund is $885,000 leaving a balance of $2,700, but there is no balance anticipated in the amount budgeted for Municipal Retirement of Transportation. The Building Fund expenditure is estimated at $119,000 leaving a thousand dollar balance.

The limit of 2 per cent has been levied for the Transportation Fund, giving a total of $8,500 which will be supplemented with money transferred from the Educational Fund and state reimbursement. The Educational Levy is $450,000, an increase over last year, due to increased enrollment, a decrease in State Aid as a result in the change of the county multiplier, and an increase in operating expenses. A total of $90,000 has been levied for the Building Fund and $10,000 for the Municipal Retirement Fund.

After disposing of the Levy and Budget project, the Board purchased cyclone fence for fencing the High School track and a portion of the West Elementary School grounds, cost of the fencing installed being $4,385.60.

Title for flooring the new building and additions was purchased from Mundy Lumber Co. of Jerseyville at a cost of 16 1/2 cents per square foot. Ten IBM typewriters, costing $295 each were purchased for the commercial department of the school.

Seventy American seating units for first grade rooms were purchased from Blackwell-Wieland to take care of anticipated increase in enrollment and as replacements. Another 60 Irwin seating units for third and sixth grad rooms were purchased from Quality School Supply Co. Five teachers' desks and chairs were also purchased.

WACKY PROGRAMMING

NORMAN, Okla. (P)—Roy Groomer has a television mystery no one can solve.

Every 15 minutes, exactly on the quarter-hour, his set goes "wacky" for about a minute. The set has been checked four times by repairmen, at a cost of $40, power lines and transformers in the area have been inspected, and each appliance in Groomer's home has been checked.

Groomer says the situation is "about to drive me nuts" but there is one consolation. The picture usually goes bad during a commercial.

ONE THING AND THEN ANOTHER

LINCOLN, Ill. (P)—Vivian T. Glick, 40, jumped from the frying pan into the fire after paying a $150 fine for drunken driving.

He was hauled before court of Justice of the Peace Dan T. Atterberry and fined another $20 for speeding—he was in too big of a hurry to get out of town.

Radio Station WLDS will have a new and clearer radio voice when installation of a new AM transmitter is completed within the next two weeks. The new equipment will replace the old transmitter which has been operating on 1180 kilocycles since the station increased power to one kilowatt in 1947.

The new transmitter, designed and built by Gates Radio Company of Quincy, Ill., has all the latest innovations developed within the past few years. The unit is being installed in the present building on the Old State Road east of Jacksonville which also houses the FM equipment.

Eades Transfer and Storage transported the transmitter from the manufacturer to Jacksonville. The installation and testing is under the supervision of G. J. Cassens, (right), technical supervisor, assisted by William Blum.

The new transmitter will have the same radiated power as the old unit, but economy of operation will be increased by the reduction of almost one-third in power requirements. The unit also is capable of reproducing frequencies from 20 to 20,000 cycles, giving true H-F output. The use of printed wiring and smaller components has reduced the size of the unit from 2100 pounds to 800 in the modern transmitter.

The 360-foot tower, a landmark of Jacksonville since 1941, will be used with the new unit.

R. Karl Baker, manager, said installation of the new transmitter is part of a continuing program of modernization carried out by the local station to serve the Jacksonville trading area with the best in radio service.

ISLE OF BANISHMENT

Patmos Island, in the Aegean Sea, is known chiefly as the place to which Saint John was banished and where he saw the visions which are described in the Book of Revelations.

UNCLE SAM'S LAND

Uncle Sam owns about one-fifth of the continental United States. His holdings embrace an area of 407,900,000 acres, or 21.4 per cent of the nation's total area.

Those in a wedding mood order about how much to buy for a home. In bathroom linens experts suggest at least three sets of bath towels, hand towels and face cloths a person a week. This is a good start to which friends and family may add in the bride's favorite colors.

The chemise is at its best in blouse form. Some of these are very pretty for summer in yellow or pink flower prints on dacron.

THE MAKING OF OLD GLORY

Literally working in a field of glory, workers inspect and finish American flags at the Annin factory. Machine printing is often used for low-cost production.

Problem of Alaska and Hawaii Has Flag Makers in a State

IT IS DOUBTFUL that any expectant father ever paced the floor more often than the top brass at Annin & Co., the nation's largest and oldest flag manufacturers, as they anxiously await word of the birth of a new state into the family of the Union.

Whether or not Alaska or Hawaii joins the Federal Union in the next year, one thing is certain, flag manufacturers are not finding too many customers for Old Glory until they know the number of stars the new ensign will carry. Since the firm's founding in 1847 it has seen 19 stars added to the Stars and Stripes.

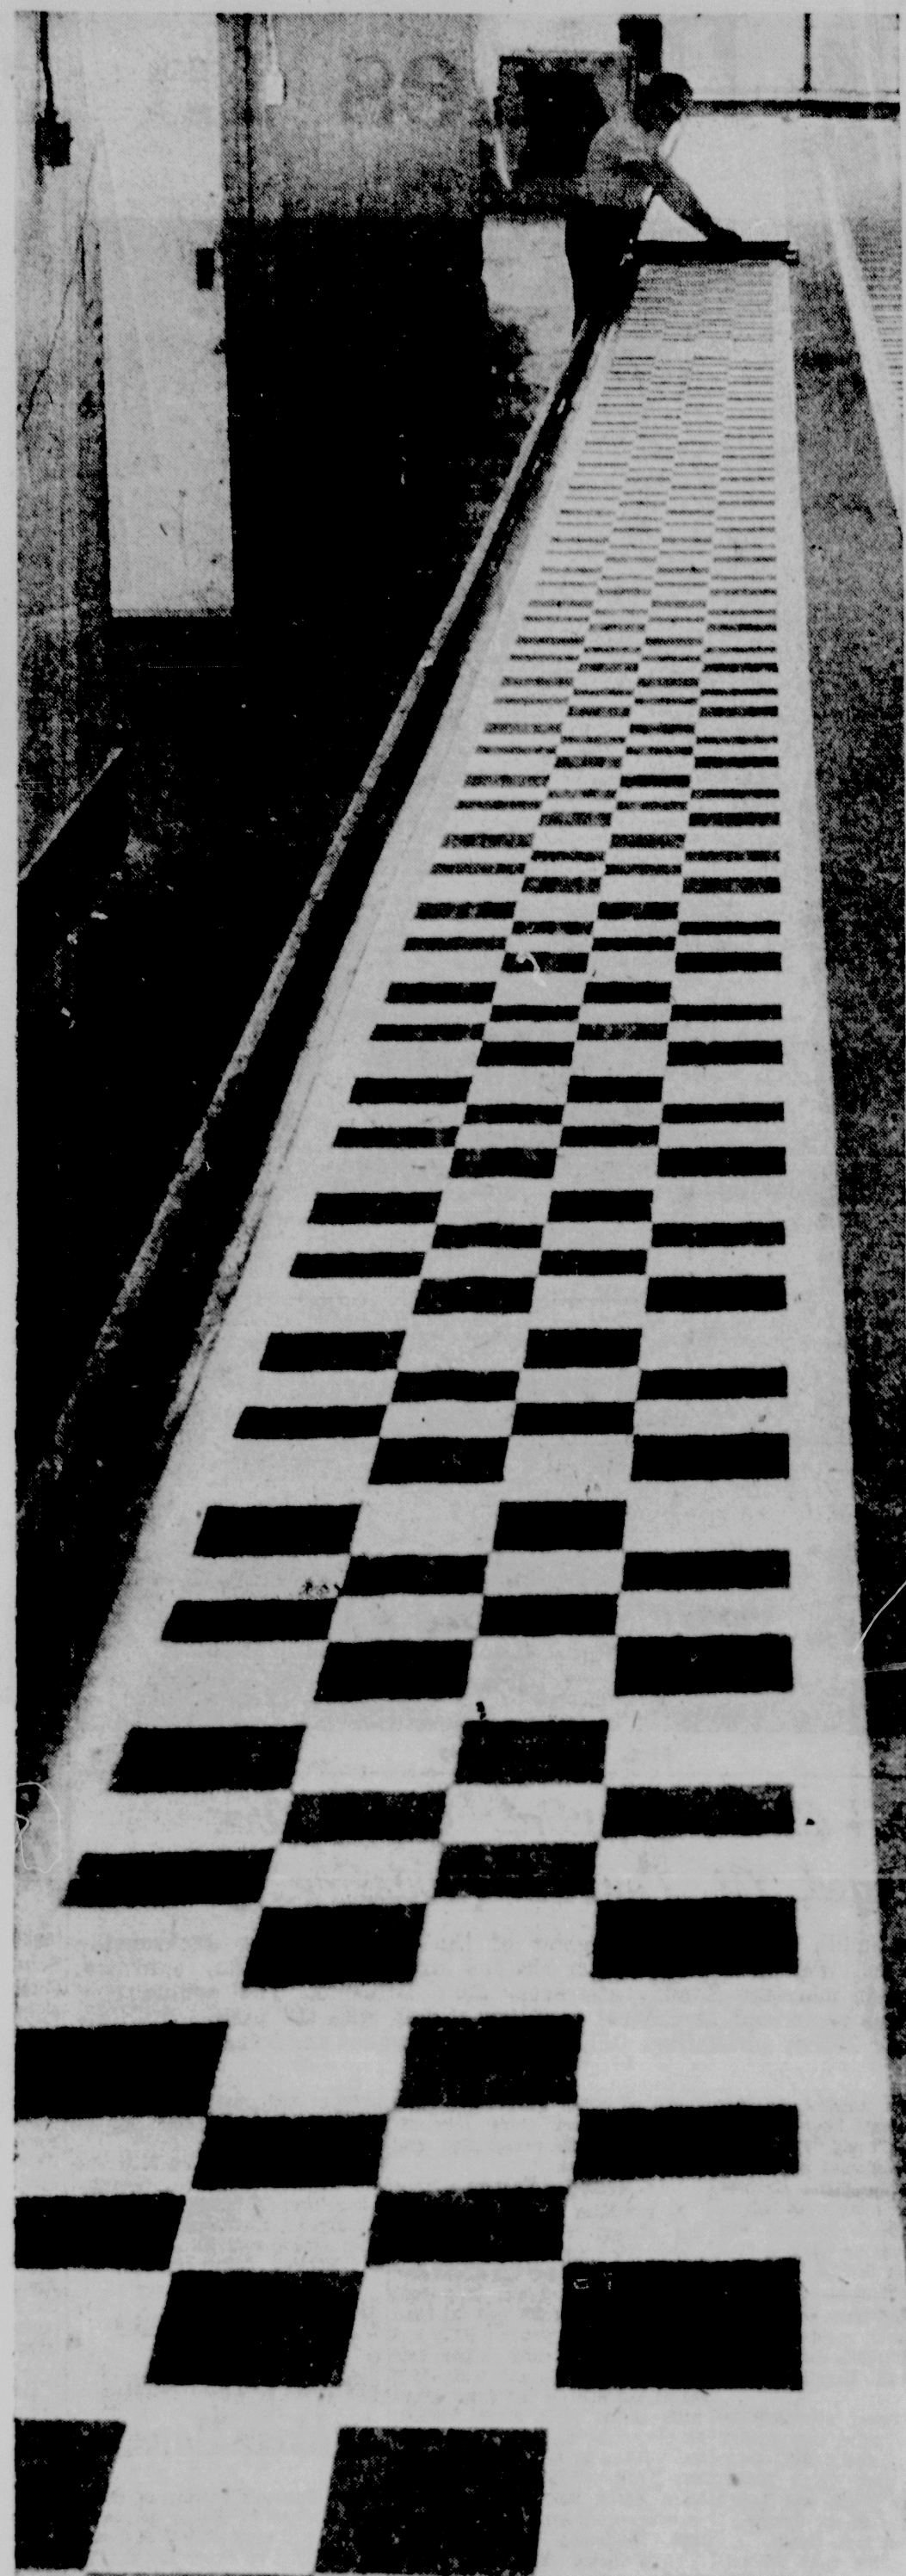

These photos, taken at the company's factory in Verona, N. J., show the various steps in flag manufacture. More than 10,000 patterns for different flags are in the company's files. Whether it be turning out a 60-by-90-foot, 500-pound woolen flag or a 2-by-3-inch miniature for a table piece, the firm's more than 250 employees know that the many steps needed in the manufacture of today's flag would have caused Betsy Ross to throw up her hands in despair.

"FOUR FLOORS OF FINE FURNITURE"

750 See Horse Races At Greene County Track

CARROLLTON—A racing program was presented under the new track lights Thursday evening at the Greene County Agricultural Fairgrounds with four races being scheduled. Most of the horses appearing on the program were young and for some it was their first time behind a starting gate.

No purse was offered for the program which was attended by over 750 persons. The purpose of the night of racing was to test the lights and determine their efficiency and whether or not any changes were to be made before the Greene County Agricultural Fair opens on Monday, July 14.

Queen To Be Chosen
July 14 will be entry day and no program has been planned. Tuesday there will be a free gate until 4 p.m. and the program Tuesday evening will feature the annual 4-H Club style show and the Beauty contest in which a Queen will be chosen. Each high school in Greene county has entered the choice of the school in the contest and it is also open to any other young girl between the ages of 16 and 21 who care to enter. This is a change from the usual fair program as in the past the Queen has been chosen on the closing night of the Fair but this year the plan is for the Queen to reign during Fair week.

The night horse racing program will open Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. and continue through Saturday evening. The racing program will open each of the four evenings at 8 p.m.

Tractor Pulling, Races
The afternoon program Wednesday will feature a tractor pulling contest, also tractor races Thursday beginning at 1 p.m. there will be horse pulling contests and Friday at 2 p.m. there will be running races. No program has been planned for Saturday other than the night racing program.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Miller of Peoria. The ceremony was performed at the First Church of God in Peoria with Rev. Wolfe officiating.

The bride's sister, Gloria Sue, was her maid of honor. She wore pastel yellow nylon patterned with white over taffeta. Her head-dress was formed of yellow daisies and she carried white pompoms with yellow roses.

The bride's secondary attendants were Mrs. Barbara Neve, Helen Hendrickson, Sonja Miller and Janet Duguid, who wore identically styled dresses of aqua nylon and taffeta. Loris Price was the flower girl.

Carl Bradford, Hillview, served the groom as best man. Ushers were Robert Livingston, Carl Burroughs, Ward Lee Heskett and Tom Russell.

Roger and Randall Page, brothers of the groom, lighted candles at the altar before the ceremony. Mark Claver was ring bearer.

The bride wore tiered nylon tulle with lace and net over taffeta. Her lace and tulle head-dress, trimmed with sequins and pearls, held her veil of illusion in place. She carried a bride's bouquet of white pompoms and rosebuds.

Mrs. Miller, mother of the bride, wore gray with pink accessories. Mrs. Page, mother of the groom, chose navy with white accessories.

After a reception at the church the couple left for a trip to St. Louis. They are making their home at 1609 Linn street in Peoria where the groom is employed by Klaus Radio and Electric. Mrs. Montague R. Slater

The former Constance Sair Neat, pictured above, became the bride of Harold Montague Slater Tuesday evening, June 24, when the Rev. James R. Mrs. Slater and her bridegroom will make their home in Columbus, Ohio, where he is enrolled at Columbus Art School majoring in commercial art.

Constance Neat Becomes Bride Of Montague Slater

The Community Methodist Church in Chandler, Arizona, was the setting Tuesday night, June 24, for the marriage of Constance Sair Neat, older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neat, to Harold Montague Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Slater of Worthington, Ohio.

Baskets of pink and white flowers adorned the church and lighted tapers in branched candelabras and white flowers were used in decoration of the altar where the Rev. James R. Hadley read the marriage vows.

Mr. Neat gave his daughter in marriage. She was a lovely bride in a gown of white organdy made with a bouffant skirt which fell into a chapel train. The bodice had a bateau scoop neckline and brief cap sleeves and her veil of illusion nylon was secured to a shirred tulle crown. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and white satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Sandra Le Goss of Grants, N. M., and bridesmaids were Laura Neat, the bride's sister, Julie Slater, a sister of the bridegroom, and Annette Williams of Tucson. The attendants' gowns were all alike, fashioned of pale pink organdy with bateau scoop necklines and bouffant skirts. They each wore pale pink organdy bows in their hair and carried nosegays of dark and pale pink carnations with pink ribbon streamers.

Pamela Breeding, a cousin of the bride, was soloist and she was accompanied on the organ by Janice Miller, Miss Miller also played the wedding music.

Frank Slater of Worthington, Ohio, was best man for his brother and ushers were Ronald D. Willis of Wheaton, Ill., Tony Baldwin and Ernest Hayes, Jr. of Queen Creek.

A reception was held in the Neat home following the church ceremony. The bride's chosen colors of pink and white were carried out in the decor of the refreshment tables where the bridecake was served. Judy Hearn and Pat Jones, long-time friends of the bride, assisted in serving and

WHEAT FUTURES RISE CONTRARY TO EXPECTATIONS

By GIL MAYO
CHICAGO (AP)—This was the week when wheat futures prices were expected to be under such increasing selling pressure that buyers would be hard to find. But they weren't.

On the contrary, prices increased slightly in the face of the largest winter wheat crop of record now being harvested, and commercial buying at week's end was the heaviest it had been in many weeks.

Corn and oats also came through the week with small gains but rye, which had been firm recently, slipped a bit and soybeans finished with minor fractional changes both above and below a week ago except in the September delivery. It moved up as much as a cent a bushel.

Wheat closed the week 1/2-2 cents a bushel higher, July $1.85 1/4-3/4; corn 1-1 1/2 higher, July $1.24-3/4; oats 1/4-1/2 higher, July 63 1/2-3/4; rye 1/4-1/2 lower, July $1.27; soybeans 1/4 lower to 1 cent higher, July $2.24 1/4-3/4; and 10 to 16 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $1.22-23.

The firmness in wheat was derived from reports of excessive rainfall in the winter crop areas where the harvest is moving toward its peak in the major producing state of Kansas.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate and U.S. government bonds declined this week but this could not dim a solid rise by both markets in the first half of 1958.

The Federal Reserve's continued easing of credit curbs, lower interest rates and the business recession were underlying factors.

The government bond market, in particular, staged a sensational spring surge that attracted investors from the stock market. In June, long range bonds slipped back sharply from their April highs. That heavy concentration of speculative interest contributed, treasury bond analysts say, to the sharpest losses of the year by government securities a fortnight ago.

Corporate bond trading hit an 11-year high in the first half of 1958. Volume mounted to $633,914,620 par value on the big board through June 27 compared with $511,847,550 a year ago at this time.

The exact area of the border crossing, the route allegedly taken by the plane inside the Soviet Union and where it came down were not described except in vague terms.

I'm going to try to give the folks of Montana the very best service I can."

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he makes it a practice to "present to the agencies as favorably as I can the facts about any case involving someone from New Hampshire."

"That's part of our job here, and we wouldn't be around long if we didn't do it," Bridges said.

Specialists probe jet wreckage

The Air Force headquarters in Washington Saturday sent a message to Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press, expressing regret at the death of Daniel J. Coughlin, 31, of the Boston Associated Press staff, one of the victims.

It said: "We of the United States Air Force share your sorrow in the loss of Mr. Daniel J. Coughlin in the recent accident at Westover Air Force Base. His participation with us in this demonstration of our global readiness marked the close relationship between the members of The Associated Press and the U.S. Air Force in our national endeavor to preserve the peace. His personal heroism reflects the essential role of the press in this continuing and vital effort. Please convey our profound sympathy to the members of your organization."

Similar messages of condolence were sent to the home offices of the other five newsmen involved in the crash.

U.S. ENDS FISCAL YEAR WITH DEFICIT OF 3-BILLION

The deficit is expected by some, while spending is expected to rise to another peacetime record of 78 to 80 billion dollars.

Budget director Maurice H. Stans in April gave notice that with the programs Congress was considering, "we are threatened with 80 billion dollar budgets for the next few years, which could well mean extended deficit spending."

Experts can be found, however, who doubt that fiscal 1959 spending will come very close to 80 billion dollars; the new military weapons programs have not advanced as rapidly as anticipated. But if federal spending does soar to that height, the same sources argue, the deficit will be less than 11 billions because the outpouring of government dollars will generate enough income to boost tax collections.

Soviet Fighters Force U.S. Plane To Fiery Landing

Soviet note. The Soviet Foreign Office usually presents its notes in Russian and they are translated at the embassy in Moscow before being transmitted to Washington.

At the Pentagon, a spokesman said no report had been received of the incident up to late afternoon but that a request for report had been sent to the Air Force in Europe.

The Soviet protest, also broadcast by Radio Moscow, charged that the plane came across the border south of Yerevan, capital of the Soviet Armenian Republic, which is a scant 10 miles from the east Turkey border.

Yerevan is about 40 miles north-east of Mt. Ararat, in Turkey, traditional resting place of Noah's ark.

The Soviet note said the plane flew over the border about 6:30 p.m.

"The American plane was met by two Soviet fighters which by means of signals proposed to it to follow them to land on a nearby airfield," the note continued.

"The plane border violator did not obey this demand. The Soviet fighters forced the plane border violator to land. It landed on Soviet territory in a district at a distance of 150 miles from the site of the boundary violation and burned."

"After the landing of the plane, there were apprehended nine members of the crew of this plane. They were American uniforms."

"As has been learned from testimony of these persons and documents found on them all the persons held are in the service of the U. S. Air Force."

"All given facts testify that this was a predetermined violation by an American military plane of the Soviet borders and its air space," the note added.

It accused the U. S. government of ignoring previous Soviet demands for safeguards to prevent such border violations.

It added that such actions aggravated Soviet - U. S. relations and hampered efforts for a peaceful international situation.

It was indicated the nine crew members were being held in a spot somewhere near the Armenian capital of Yerevan.

The text of the Soviet note was transmitted by the Tass Agency but did not indicate how the U. S. plane was forced down or exactly where.

The exact area of the border crossing, the route allegedly taken by the plane inside the Soviet Union and where it came down were not described except in vague terms.

UAW members employed at Big Three plants have been working without contracts for the past four weeks since the old ones ran out.

The strike votes are expected to continue through July. Reuther has indicated he is in no hurry about threatening strike action so long as the companies have a large inventory of unsold 1958 model cars.

The voting has just started among Chrysler workers and is less than half completed among GM and Ford workers.

Woman, 78, Leaves For Visit Behind Iron Curtain

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—Mrs. Anna Fichtner, 78, a Davenport great-grandmother, left Saturday by plane for a flying trip behind the Iron Curtain to visit a brother and sister she hasn't seen for 37 years.

Leipzig, deep in Communist-destined East Germany is her destination. Neither the round trip by plane nor the fact that Leipzig is behind the Iron Curtain hold any terror for Mrs. Fichtner.

"No, I'm not afraid at all," she smiled as she prepared for the trip. "I'll mind my own business and keep my mouth shut. I won't have any trouble."

One of the reasons for the trip is that Mrs. Fichtner loves to fly. She took her first plane ride last year when she flew to Memphis for a visit.

"I feel safer in a plane than in a car," she commented. "I won't have to get seasick, either. Like I did when I came to this country in 1907."

Mrs. Fichtner last visited Leipzig, where she was born, in 1921. She will visit now with her brother, Bernhard Gloeck, and her sister, Hilma Schreiber. She'll spend seven and a half weeks on the trip.

STATE'S NATURAL HISTORY SURVEY IS 100 YEARS OLD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Natural History Survey Monday will mark its 100th anniversary in the field of biological research.

The agency was formed originally as the Illinois Natural History Society. In 1871 the society turned its museum over to the state. Its research and survey duties were assigned to the Illinois State Laboratory of Natural History in 1877.

In 1916 the laboratory and the state entomologist's office were merged to form the Natural History Survey under the State Registration and Education Department.

Report UAW Voting In Favor Of Strike Action

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers reported Saturday its members were voting overwhelmingly in favor of authorizing strike action if necessary to back up the union's contract demands on General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The union gave the latest tally as 128,127 in favor of striking and 8,645 against.

Strike votes among the union's locals at Big Three plants throughout the nation were requested by UAW President Walter P. Reuther to support union negotiators in their deadlocked contract talks with the carmakers.

UAW members employed at Big Three plants have been working without contracts for the past four weeks since the old ones ran out.

The strike votes are expected to continue through July. Reuther has indicated he is in no hurry about threatening strike action so long as the companies have a large inventory of unsold 1958 model cars.

Downstate Prep Notes

Henry V. Porter, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations for 17 years, has announced that he will retire effective Aug. 1. The announcement came at a meeting at Santa Barbara, Calif., of the National Council. He also served for 23 years as secretary of the National Basketball Committee and the National Alliance Football and Baseball committees. Porter is a former high school coach of Athens and took several fine teams to the "Sweet 16" tournaments. It was voted by the committee to award him the titles of both secretary emeritus of the National Federation and the National Alliance Football Committee.

Elmer Plew has been named the head basketball coach at Rock Falls High and he is a former star player at Paris High school. He graduated at Illinois U. and served last season at Ridge Farm High where his team won 17 and lost 7 games. Rock Falls won second place in the State tourney last March and the coach of that team, Dick Haelein, has resigned to accept a similar post at University High of Normal.

Collinsville High coach Vergil Fletcher is supervisor of the city-wide playground conducted for the first year since World War II. Last Tuesday the St. Louis Hawks basketball team, national champs, demonstrated to the kids at Collinsville the art of playing basketball. Yes, Collinsville starts their eagles out early and it has paid off with many fine high school teams. Coach Fletcher is a native of Johnston and graduated at Illinois College. Before going to Collinsville High in 1945 he coached at Mt. Pulaski and Pana.

Galesburg High school has employed four basketball coaches in the last 30 years including Gerald Phillips, Ken Menke, Frank Adams and the present mentor, John Thiel. Moline coaches include Roger Potter, Norm Zeibel and the present coach, Jack Foley. Football bosses include Potter, Archie Swanson and the new coach next fall, Kenneth Funk. Charleston has employed as football and basketball coaches Darrell Black, Joe Bressler, Paul Swofford and the present mentor, Mervin Baker, who moved from Dupu High in the fall of 1953. Litchfield High coaches include Maurice Macey, Glen Riley, Arlyn Lober, Bob Horton and the present mentor, Bill Edwards. Former star player at Staunton High, coach of the John Stabler football coach at Paris since 1953, has been named to teach in the junior high next September. Don Luketich has been named athletic director at Alton High and he formerly coached at Greenfield and Bradford. He will not coach any sport next year as he formerly served as assistant coach in football and basketball of the Redbirds the last two years. Billy Joe Myers is the head coach at Oakland High after four successful years at Brownstown. Paul Jordan is the new coach at Assumption High replacing Ed Corcoran, new football mentor at Lakeview (Decatur). Paul Kimrey is the new coach at LaMoille High and Jim Thompson is returning to Mt. Auburn High after serving in the Army.

It's in the record books as one of the lowest scoring basketball games in Illinois high school history—Athens 7 White Hall 3 and it determined the championship of the fourth annual Winchester invitational tournament. Henry Porter, coach of that great 1926 Athens High team, stated, "That's right, I remember that game well and it was an odd one. Here was the setup as we had made a mistake in our chart and had arranged to play Canton the same night as the championship game of the Winchester tourney. So all of a sudden I found myself with two games the same night, with one team and with one of the games a championship affair. There was nothing else to do but divide the team and send part of the squad to Canton while the other part went over to Winchester. We had a good team that year and even though we had only part of it on hand for the title game I guess White Hall was none too anxious to run with us. So they decided to stall on the assumption that a high scoring team like ours would start to rush them and give them some breakaway shots at the basket. At the same time though, I was none too certain that we could trade baskets with them since half our players were gone, so stalling was right up our alley. Both teams refused to shoot so it was just one of those games with one team or the other holding the ball in the backcourt waiting for either foul or a sleeper shot. As I recall the game, and I may be wrong, I don't think that White Hall got a single basket but made all three of their points on free throws. It was a game for the books all right and after we won we went right on to wind up in the finals of the state tournament."

White Hall won over Canton that year at White Hall 27-21 and after the game Coach Mark P. Terman of Canton stated in the dressing room of the winners, "Well, Whiteside, I'll see you in the State tourney." Canton won third place that year in the State tourney while White Hall lost out in the district meet.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS
Journal-Courier Sports Editor

Doctor, Athlete, Familyman Scott,—Student, Warrior, Handyman Scott — This little jingle will give you a brief description of our Sportrait guest this Sunday — Doctor Harvey D. Scott, Jr.—which should bring back nostalgic football and track memories to JHS and Illinois College fans. For eight years 'Scotty' produced many a thrill on the gridiron and the cinder paths for the local fans. He's still producing the thrills but in a different field and for other types of fans—whether it be delivering a baby, performing major surgery, or just treating a common cold. His athletic prowess has helped him attain great success in the field of medicine.

Harvey's athletic career began in Jacksonville High in 1935 under coach Frank Walker, when JHS was just coming out of its athletic doldrums. He was given a shot at right halfback and the squad finished with a one win, five losses and three tie marks for the season. The 1936 campaign brought the Crimson six wins, four losses and one tie. After two seasons of learning, Scott finally made the scoring column during the 1937 season when the Jacks recorded their first undefeated mark in many a month although they were tied twice. In racking up eight victories without a loss, the Crimson amassed 131 points to the opponents' 25, tallies, as many points as Harvey accounted for with four TD's and one extra-point.

The 174 pound speed merchant enabled JHS to claim its first Central Conference grid championship in 1937, the initial year the loop was formed. Although Harvey starred in the Lanphier contest, he almost became the 'goat' of the game when he fumbled a punt on his own three and Lanphier punched across for a 5-0 lead. But he redeemed himself by throwing a TD pass to Charlie Johnson and then he played across for the PAT and an all-important 7-6 victory. This win gave JHS undisputed possession of the conference championship. The school held a mass celebration for its grid heroes. Another Scott touchdown, which covered 45 yards, brought JHS a 6-0 win over Jerseyville with the game less than a minute old. This plus many other fine runs earned the lanky Scott the distinction of being a triple-threat back in that he was a fine punter, shifty runner and a tough 'cookie' on defense. He could also pass if called upon.

—0—
Besides notching a name for himself on the gridiron, Harvey was an letting his presence be felt on the cinders. He started coming into his own as a hurdler in 1937. That season the Crimson captured their first dual track meet in seven years by beating Litchfield with Scott taking first in both the low and high hurdles. He also ran the sprint events but the hurdles were his 'baby', which carried him to the state finals at Champaign a year later. Harvey also had a fling at baseball when he pitched the Jacksonville Junior hard-ball team to a district title at Beardstown but this sport just wasn't his main love.

The spring of '38 brought Scott greater achievements in JHS track annals. Of all the marks that have been broken recently by the JHS thinclads, only two will stand. One is Scott's high hurdle mark of 15.5 set in the district runoff. The other is John Iram's shot-put record. In the semifinals heat of that district even, some say that if Scott hadn't looked back to see where his opponent was, he could have clocked out at 15.1 and placed first instead of second. However, he did win first in the 120 yard high hurdle finals in 15.5 to qualify for the state. At the state finals, Harvey won his first heat but placed third in one of the three semifinals, which qualified six for the finals. He happened to be in the fastest heat which was won by an Oak Park lad in 15.1. Scott went on to place fifth in the state. Another honor was being the hurdle champ in the conference for several seasons.

Three distinctive honors were accorded 'Scotty' in graduation exercises. He was the second highest honor student in the senior class, received a Honorary Science Award and was chosen to receive the S. W. Nichols Scholarship at Illinois College. Besides participating in high school athletics, Scott was prom chairman and played a leading role in the senior class play. Prior to enrolling at Illinois College in the fall of '38, Harvey won the Merle Ingels trophy for being the outstanding athlete at the Morgan County Fair with a total of 32 points.

The future M.D. then switched his football and track colors from crimson and white to blue and white in September of 1938. Scott played football for the Illinois College Frosh and he scored two touchdowns in a three win, two loss season. Harvey showed plenty of 'spit and polish' in moving up to the Blueboy varsity in 1939. He led the team in scoring with 11 TD's for 66 points and the squad chalked up an impressive six win, one loss, and one tie record under the guidance of Alf Lamb. The 1940 aggregation split their campaign, 4-4, with Scott coming up with six touchdowns. Scott ended his gridiron duty in 1941 with 19 tallies as the Blueboys compiled a three win, four loss and two tie mark.

The '39 season was Scott's greatest year as far as TD production went. The triple-threat halfback practically whipped Rose Poly single handed in the finale of the season with four TD's in a 31-7 triumph. Scott also had a three-touchdown effort in one game that season as the Blueboys romped over McKendree 28-0. Our featured guest was elected honorary co-captain of the '41 team and he also captained two I.C. track teams in lettering all four years. Following his graduation in 1942, he was offered a pro contract with the Detroit Lions, but he turned it down to enter his chosen field of medicine. Scott served as president of his senior class in addition to being an honor student and belonging to Gamma Nu. While at I.C., Harvey had time to find his future wife, the former Audrey Grone of Staunton.

—0—
Mrs. Scott, the class of '41, was the I.C. homecoming queen for 1940-41 with her future husband serving as her escort. Following his graduation, Harvey joined the Army Air Corps in June of 1942. Our country was at war with Japan and Germany. The former Miss Grone and Harvey became engaged in December while he was serving as a cadet at San Antonio, Tex. On October 7, 1942, Harvey and Audrey were united in marriage in Maplewood, a suburb of St. Louis. Bill Hofmann was best man. Lt. Scott, who flew a B-26 Marauder bomber, then went overseas in January of 1944 to a European theatre of war.

April 23, 1944, almost ended the brilliant future of Harvey D. Scott, Jr. His plane was shot down somewhere over Germany and he and five crew members were forced to bail out. The war department issued the following telegram: "We wish to inform you that Lieutenant Harvey D. Scott, Jr., is missing in action. We have information that all six occupants of Lieutenant Scott's plane were seen to bail out and the six parachutes were seen falling toward the ground. We believe that Lieutenant Scott is now a prisoner of the Germans. The date of the action in which the plane was shot down was April 23rd." Harvey was a prisoner of war (Stalag Luft 111) for one year and a month, 1944-1945. While Harvey was a captive of the Germans, the Army awarded him with an air medal and one oak leaf cluster to air medal with the presentation being made at the Legion Home to Mrs. Scott.

—0—
Scott received his discharge from the Air Corps in November of 1945 and enrolled at Northwestern University Medical School. Harvey teamed up with Doctor E. C. Bone in January of 1954 in a partnership, which will soon mark five years they've been practicing medicine together. The Scotts have three future All-Staters in the household. They are Dicky, age 8, Tommy, age 5, and Jimmy, who is four months old. I've covered just about everything our little jingle describes of Doctor Scott except handyman and I'm sure after you've read this, you'll agree with me that Harvey D. Scott, Jr., is a very handy man to have around—whether it be his athletic past or flying a bombing mission or his present status — that being a doctor of medicine.

Porter's Single In 9th Enables Tribe To Edge Orioles, 6-5

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vic Power doubled and J. W. Porter singled home the winning run in the ninth inning Saturday, giving the Cleveland Indians a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. The Tribe continued the winning habit for new manager Joe Gordon, again using the formula of late-inning rallies.

Gordon sent up three pinch-hitters who drove in as many runs. The Indians wiped out a 5-2 deficit with two runs in the sixth inning and single runs in the eighth and ninth frames. It was the second victory for the Tribe under Gordon. Don Mossi won his second straight in relief, to give the lanky southpaw a 6-4 mark. The Orioles scored three runs in the first inning for Billy Loeb in search of his first victory after seven losses. Lenny Green drove in two of the markers with a bases-loaded single.

Arnold Upsets Truman At Wimbledon, Six U.S. Players Advance

Associated Press Sports Writer WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Tiny Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., upset British Amazon Christine Truman Saturday and keyed a six-player American advance through another round at the rain-plagued Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Miss Arnold, just 19, standing 5-1 and weighing barely 100 pounds, outplayed, outdove and outplayed her 6-foot, 172-pound opponent who became Britain's tennis idol after her victory over New York's Althea Gibson in the Wimbledon cup matches two weeks ago. The score was 10-6, 6-3.

The center court battle brightened American prestige considerably on another gray, drizzly day that also saw the advance of Miss Gibson, the defending women's champion, and Barry McKay of Dayton, Ohio, chief American hope in the men's singles.

Miss Gibson, playing well with herself, joined Miss Arnold in the quarter-finals with a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Lorraine Coshlan of Australia. Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont of Wilmington, Del., only other U.S. survivor in women's play, won a third-round match from Australia's Norma Marsh 6-3, 3-6, 8-6. Eighth-seeded Karol Fageros of Miami fell before Britain's Pat Ward, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

MacKay, former champion Budgie Patty of Los Angeles and Paris, and 44-year-old Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., stepped up to the fourth round in men's singles.

MacKay, trailing Australian Bob Mark 4-6, 8-8 when rain intervened Friday, played spotily but well enough to win, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4, 6-4. Mulloy eliminated 21-year-old Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla. 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Patty completed a rain-delayed match with bearded Tordben Ulrich of Denmark, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2.

Other men's favorites moved along with little effort, including top-seeded Ashley Cooper and third-seeded Mervyn Rose, both of Australia.

Cooper, still troubled by a pulled thigh muscle, defeated Joergen Ulrich of Denmark, 9-7, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Rose toyed with Brazil's Ronald Barnes, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4. Jaroslav Drobný, 1954 champion from Egypt, bounced one of the second line Aussies, Rod Laver, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. All were third round matches. On the other hand, Miss Arnold's victory over the touted Miss Truman cleared away perhaps the top obstacle to Miss Gibson in her bid for another championship. Miss Truman, although only 17, was seeded second and was rated a good chance to win after her tremendous play in leading Britain to its first Wimbledon cup victory in 28 years here two weeks ago. Only 18-year-old Maria Bueno of Brazil remains as a serious threat off past form. She defeated Britain's Joan Curry, 6-0, 6-2.

Little Mimi, who said afterwards, "I never thought I would lose," broke through Christine's man-like service with a sizzling backhand in the 17th game to set up her first set victory. Miss Truman, known as a slow starter, scored a service break in the first game of the second set and held her own service for a 2-0 lead.

Then Mimi rallied, winning the next five games—three on service breaks—for a 5-2 lead. She appeared over-anxious as she dropped her own service at love but fought back again for her fourth break of the set and one of the top upsets of the current 72nd tournament.

Casey Winds Up With 9 Yankees For Loop Classic

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel wound up with 9 of his own run-away New York Yankees, including 3 pitchers, as he completed the 25-player American League squad for the July 8 All-Star game Saturday.

As expected, Boston's Ted Williams—omitted from the started AL lineup named in Friday poll of players, coaches and managers—was picked by Stengel for his complete squad which has seven pitchers.

The eight players, exclusive of pitchers, who received the highest vote at their respective positions in the player poll will start and play a minimum of three innings. Remainder of the squad was named by Stengel.

Stengel's unit includes five players from the Chicago White Sox; three from the Boston Red Sox; two each from the Cleveland Indians, Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers; and one each from the Kansas City A's and Washington Senators.

The Yankees, who had first baseman Bill Skowron and center fielder Mickey Mantle named as starters, also will be represented by pitchers Whitey Ford, Bob Turley and Arnold Duren; catcher Yogi Berra; outfielder Elston Howard; shortstop Tony Kubek; and second baseman Gil McDougald.

Stengel will have three top lefties, including Ford, Billy Pierce of the White Sox and Billy O'Dell of the Orioles. His right-handed mound guns will be Turley, Early Wynn of the White Sox, Duren and Ray Narjeski of Cleveland.

The starters will be Gus Triandos of Baltimore, catcher, Boston's Frank Malzone, third base, Chicago's Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox at short and second. Skowron at first, Mantle in center, Kansas City's Bob Cerv in left and Boston's Jackie Jensen in right.

CAVAN MAKING AMENDS FOR ERRAND KING
OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP)—Cavan, winner of the Belmont Stakes, has made amends for Trainer Tom J. Barry who picked the colt out in Ireland for Joseph E. O'Connell.

Back in 1954 at Monmouth Park Barry sent out Errand King in the Choice Stakes. He was a heavy favorite but was beaten a nose by the longshot Punkin Vine. Barry always felt Errand King was his best horse but now he believes that honor goes to Cavan. The Belmont was the colt's third straight score.

Green's First Grand Slam, Maglie's Hurling Gives Cards 8-1 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—St. Louis rookie Gene Green banged out his first major league grand slam homer and veteran Sal Maglie gave up only five hits Saturday as the Cards trounced Philadelphia 8-1, in a game marked by the season's third major league triple play.

Green's big blow came in the first inning and put the Cards ahead to stay. Don Blasingame tripled and Curt Flood singled him home. Stan Musial's double advanced Flood to third and Ken Boyer was issued an intentional walk by loser Curt Simmons (6). L.—Simmons.

Home runs—St. Louis, Green (16), Philadelphia, Sawatski (1).

Here's how the triple play came about:

Flood beat out an infield hit to third. Wally Post dropped a fly by Stan Musial and Ken Boyer lined to second baseman Solly Hemus. Hemus stepped on third to snare Flood and threw to first to nab Musial. The Chicago Cubs and Washington also have executed triple plays this season.

Frisina Of Taylorville Captures His 5th Golf Title In State Amateur

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Jim Frisina, 47, Taylorville, Ill., grandfather, led all the way as he captured his fifth Illinois state amateur golf title with a 3-2 victory over Christ Sarro of Champaign Saturday.

Frisina, who last took the state crown in 1936, led from the second hole of the 36-hole title match at the University of Illinois course.

Frisina shot an even par 72 on the morning round and was three over par for the 16 holes played this afternoon.

Sarro was two over par for the 16 holes played Saturday afternoon. The closest he came to Frisina was two down as he won the 29th hole.

Frisina immediately captured a three up lead by shooting a birdie on the 30th with a 10-foot putt. From there, they halved every hole.

Frisina, a theater chain owner, also had won the state title in 1942, 47-54.

Frisina's steadiness and experience told the story. He never gambled and protected his lead all the way. Sarro never was able to get his putter hot, although playing well to the green.

Frisina had four birdies on his first six holes and on the fifth green curled home a 50-foot putt.

The cards:
Morning round:
Par out 445 345 344-36
Frisina out 335 334 355-34
Sarro out 345 344 444-35

Red Sox Nudge Tigers In 12th On Home Run, 6-5

DETROIT (AP) — Ted Lepcio, who was hitting below .200, smashed a pinch-hit home run in the 12th inning Saturday, gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Lepcio was the first batter to face southpaw Billy Hoft—the Tigers' fifth pitcher. He sent his third pitch zooming into the left field seats. Bob (Riverboat) Smith, a rookie southpaw gained his fourth victory with three innings of relief work. Twice he retired the Tigers, leaving two runners stranded.

The loss dropped the Tigers back into a tie for third place with the Red Sox.

After Lepcio batted for Smith, Murray Wall hurled the 12th inning and retired the side after Harvey Kuenn doubled, his fourth hit of the game.

Jensen clouted two home runs—his 21st and 22nd of the season—and accounted for four of the Red Sox's tallies. They came in successive times at bat off starter Jim Bunning and reliever Herman Wehmeier.

Chisox Earn 8-4 Win Over Washington On Three Unearned Runs

CHICAGO (AP) — Although Washington banged four homers, two in a row by Roy Sievers, the Chicago White Sox rallied for four runs, three unearned, in the sixth and an 8-4 victory over the Senators Saturday.

Washington's Rocky Bridges and Norm Zaichin also hit solo homers.

Chicago starter Jim Wilson was not even close to repeating Billy Pierce's near perfect victory over the Senators Friday night and left in the sixth in which Sievers hit his second homer for a 4-3 Senator lead. The decision went to Bob Shaw.

Friday Baseball

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks as though this is the year the Los Angeles Dodgers pocket the payoff on that $20,000 bonus southpaw Sandy Koufax collected in 1954.

Sandy's been right handy of late, winning three and saving another in a six-day span while the last place Dodgers have won six of seven in a come-alive drive that has produced their first four-game winning streak of the season.

Brooklyn-born Koufax, 22, hit his one-season high with his sixth victory Friday night, a 3-1 complete game job that gave him a 4-0 lifetime record against Milwaukee. It also stretched the Dodgers' winning jinx over the Braves to nine in a row, seven this season.

While Los Angeles moved within six games of Milwaukee, the Braves' National League lead remained at 1½ games despite their third consecutive loss, their fifth in seven games.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals were beaten 5-4 at Philadelphia in 11 innings. And the San Francisco Giants, 902 points behind St. Louis, lost 6-5 at Cincinnati. The Chicago Cubs took fifth place, cracking a tie with Pittsburgh with a 3-1 victory over the Pirates, who have lost seven in a row.

In the American League, the New York Yankees upped their lead to 8½ games, beating second place Kansas City 10-3. Detroit defeated Boston 7-4. The Chicago White Sox whipped Washington 3-0 and Cleveland defeated Baltimore 5-3.

Dick Farrell (5-2) won his fourth in a row with a one-hit, shutout relief over 2 2/3 innings for the Phils. Billy Muffett (3-2), the fourth Card pitcher, was the loser.

The Giants, down 4-1, hustled back on Daryl Spencer's 11th homer and Rookie Orlando Cepeda's 16th, both two-run shots, for a 5-4 edge by the fifth, then blew it in the 9th. An error by Ed Bressoud, a walk and Johnny

Oldtimers' Tilt Ends Up In 1-1 Draw At Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Lefty Grove, who won 300 major league games, won a Boston Red Sox uniform and went to the pitching mound again Saturday.

The immortal Ty Cobb, who won a dozen batting championships as a Detroit Tiger, revisited the ball park he knew as Navin Field.

Six other Red Sox and Tiger members of the hall of fame and a host of former diamond greats took part in Detroit's Oldtimers' Day.

The Tigers were represented by the outfield of their first pennant winner, the 1907 team. Hall of famers Cobb and Sam Crawford rejoined 78-year-old Dave Jones, the oldest oldtimer in Briggs Stadium Saturday.

The entire starting lineup of the Tigers' first world championship team in 1905 was back. Manager Mickey Cochrane was behind the plate in the two-inning game between the old Red Sox and the old Tigers. Fittingly, they battled to a 1-1 tie while baseball rules were regarded lightly.

Joe Cronin and Jimmie Fox were back in the Red Sox lineup.

But it was light-hitting Jo Jo White from the 1934-35 Detroit pennant winners who provided the tie in the third inning.

White threw one of Grove's offerings on a line into the lower rightfield seats. He trotted around the bases shaking hands with Red Sox and umpire alike as he went.

"They must be throwing golf balls nowadays," White said. "I hit a home run off Grove. Ask him."

The Red Sox scored a first-inning run off Tommy Bridges. Schoolboy Rowe and under-armer Eldon Auker, all from the 1934-35 Tigers.

After one inning, hall of famer Hank Greenberg came in and tossed his first baseman's glove to Rudy York.

"You go in there next inning," said Greenberg. "My goin' second base has gotten awfully far."

It was York who succeeded Greenberg as Tiger first sacker on the 1940 pennant winners. Greenberg then became an outfielder.

Cobb didn't get into uniform but drew a tremendous ovation when introduced.

"I wouldn't trust myself out there," he said. "I'm a small town country boy from a little town with a 2,800 population and I'm 71. So if I walk out there slowly, it's these old bones."

Haney Has Six Of His Braves On All-Star Squad

By HAROLD HARRISON
CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Haney will have six members of his world champion Milwaukee Braves on his squad when he takes the National League team into the annual major league All-Star game at Baltimore on July 8.

Outfielder Hank Aaron and catcher Ed Crandall were selected for the starting lineup by a vote of the league's players and fans. Haney picked four others Saturday as he completed the 25-man squad.

Haney chose pitchers Don McMahon and Warren Spahn, shortstop Johnny Logan and third baseman Eddie Mathews.

According to custom, the manager picks all of the pitchers and Haney rounded out his hurling staff by selecting Johnny Antonelli of the San Francisco Giants, Dick Farrell of the Philadelphia Phillies, Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Bob Purkey of the Cincinnati Reds.

Haney's other selections were outfielders Richie Ashburn of the Phils and Walt Moryn and Lee Walls of the Chicago Cubs; catcher John Roseboro of the Dodgers and Bob Schmidt of the Giants; and infielders Don Blasingame of the Cardinals and George Crowe of the Redlegs.

As the squad stands, the Braves will have six players, the Pirates four, the Cubs, Cardinals and Giants three each and the Redlegs, Phils and Dodgers two each.

The selection of only two Cincinnati players was a far cry from the rosters of the past two years when Redlegs dominated the starting lineup under the old system of having the starters picked by a vote of the fans.

The National League starters, excluding the pitcher, will be: catcher, Stan Musial of the Cards; first base, Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates; second base, Ernie Banks of the Cubs; shortstop, Frank Thomas of the Pirates; third base, and Willie Mays of the Giants; Bob Skinner of the Pirates and Aaron in the outfield.

Ohio's first agricultural fair was held in October, 1833.

Pace-Setting Braves Topple Los Angeles 1st Time This Year, 7-3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The pace-setting Milwaukee Braves, with nothing to show for seven games except defeat, finally turned on their tormentors Saturday to hammer out a resounding 7-3 victory. Rookie right-hander Charlie Williams went the distance as he limited Los Angeles to four hits.

It was Willie's second straight major league victory. He shut out San Francisco 7-0 in his debut last Monday.

The Braves backed up Willey with an 11-hit attack that included homers by Johnny Logan and Henry Aaron. The Dodgers used four pitchers, starting with left-hander Johnny Podres, who failed to last a full inning, but accumulated his 7th loss against 7 victories.

Home runs—Los Angeles, Hodges (12), Milwaukee, Logan (8), Aaron (13).

Willie got stronger as the game wore on, having his principal trouble from Gil Hodges. The big Dodger first sacker lined a sacrifice fly with the bags loaded in the opening frame to drive in one run, and crashed his 12th round-tripper of the season with none on in the sixth, a shot into the left field bleachers. Willey went along nicely then till the ninth when the Dodgers scored an unearned marker. This came on a throw by Ed Mathews that hit Dick Gray in the back trying to score from third on a bunt.

Los Angeles 100 001 001—3 4 1 Milwaukee 210 010 12x—11 1 Podres, Klippstein (1), Erskine (7), Kipp (8) and Roseboro; Willey and Crandall, L—Podres.

Pirates Snap 7-Game Losing Streak, Thump Chicago Cubs, 7-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates put the skids on a seven-game losing streak Saturday, thumping the Chicago Cubs 7-3 with the help of a 4-run fifth inning.

Bob Skinner's bases-loaded single, an error by shortstop Ernie Banks and Ted Kuszewski's double produced the runs in the fifth. Skinner also drove in the Pirates' first ally in the first inning with a sacrifice fly after Billy Virdon led off with a triple.

Rookie Curt Raydon won his third game, but needed help from reliever Bob Porterfield. Raydon was lifted in the sixth with two aboard. Porter field snuffed out the rally by getting Bobby Thomson to hit into a double play.

The Cubs scored single tallies in the second, fourth and sixth innings. Thomson, Sammy Taylor and Dale Long drove in one run each with a sacrifice fly.

Chicago 100 101 000—3 8 2 Pittsburgh 100 140 01x—7 10 0 Drott, Henry (5), Hobbie (5), Hillman (7) and S. Taylor; Raydon, Porterfield (6) and Follen W—Raydon, L—Drott.

He defeated Rod Carlisle of Mattson 6-2, 6-1 in Saturday's play. Charles Lockhart of Detroit defeated Bob Powless of Flora 6-2, 6-1 to gain the fourth position in the semifinals.

The Hinsdale pair — Riessen and Thorne—also will play in the doubles final.

Semifinals in the boys under 15 division in order of seed are: Hal Lowe of Decatur, Don Christian of Chicago, David Moss of Granite City and William Coker of Peoria.

Lynn Kernwein and Norma Schmidt, both of Rockford, are matched in the girls division final.

Wright Collects Women's Open In Record Finish

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Willyou Mickey Wright turned the U. S. Women's Open Golf Championship into a runaway Saturday and her winning total wiped out a U.S. Open record established by the incomparable Babe Zaharias.

Miss Wright, a 23-year-old blonde from Chula Vista, Calif., took the lead at the outset and won the biggest ladies' tournament of them all in a blazing finish.

Despite Saturday's rugged 36-hole requirements, Mickey fired a 70 in the morning round and a 74 in the afternoon for a winning 294 total. That eclipses the 291 record total that the late Mrs. Zaharias had in winning the 1954 U. S. Women's Open at Pebble Beach, Mass.

This is the biggest victory of Miss Wright's young career and gives her the 1958 "slam." Recently she won the Ladies' PGA championship, and she did it in the same decisive fashion in both events.

She won the LPGA by six strokes and took this one by five.

Miss Louise Suggs, twice a winner and twice runnerup in the Women's Open, had a 74 and a 71 at Forest Lake Country Club and finished with 295.

Miss Wright's total was two strokes under par at Forest Lake's 37-36-73 layout.

At the halfway point before the 36-hole finale, Miss Wright had only a one stroke lead over Fay Crocker, 1955 Open winner from Montevideo, Uruguay. Miss Crocker could do no better than 76-74 for a 297 total that gave her third place.

The victory was worth $1,800 to Miss Wright, who turned professional in 1954, the year she finished in a fourth-place tie as an amateur in this same tournament.

Alice Bauer finished strong with a 75-72 and her 300 total over the 6,240 yard course put her in fourth place. The 1947 champion, Betty Jonsson, of San Antonio, finished fifth at 293.

Betsy Rawls, who took the 1957 title when Mrs. Jackie Pung, of San Francisco, was disqualified for a scoring error, had the day's best performance after a slow start. Her 75-70 pulled the three-time Open champion to 304, good enough for sixth place. Miss Rawls also won in 1951 and 1953.

Mrs. Pung tied with Wilf Smith of St. Clair, Mich., for seventh place another stroke back. Patty Berg of Lemont, Ill., tied with Vonnie Colby of Miami Beach at 306.

The leading amateur was Anne Quast, Stanford coed, whose 307 total deadlocked her with Mary Lena Faulk of Thomaston, Ga., and Bev Hanson of Indio, Calif.

During his 25-year big league career, Adams rode in 20,159 races. He won 3,570 of them. His mounts were in the money 8,609 times and his purse winnings totaled $9,741,889. He was national jockey champion in 1937, 1942 and 1943. His biggest successes in recent years were scored at Chicago area tracks.

Only six other U. S. jockeys have ridden as many as 3,000 winners. They are Eddie Arcaro, Ralph Neves, Johnny Longden, Ted Atkinson, Willie Shoemaker and Steve Brooks.

Adams Takes Up New Duties As Trainer

CHICAGO (AP) — Jockey Johnny Adams, who retired a few days after 28 years in the saddle, is taking up his new job as trainer for the Buddha Stable with many thrills and memories behind him.

The Buddha Stable, owned by St. Paul industrialist David Piper, comprises ten horses.

Adams says the biggest kick he received as a jockey had nothing to do with $100,000 races or championship thoroughbreds.

"I guess the greatest thrill I got was riding my first winner," says Adams, who will be 44 Sept. 1. "I don't mean at a recognized track, but at a county fair meet in a little town called Union Town. Kan. I was about 15 years old. The horse's name was Al Kane, and the purse couldn't have been more than $100."

During his 25-year big league career, Adams rode in 20,159 races. He won 3,570 of them. His mounts were in the money 8,609 times and his purse winnings totaled $9,741,889. GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

GOSHEN, N. Y.—(NEA)—Here at Historic Half-Mile Track in cross-roads Goshen you find harness racing as it was meant to be—out in the clear sunshine, in a delightfully rustic setting and the sport the main idea.

You don't see a handful of the betting fraternity that frequent the new and elaborate plants made possible by gambling at night, such as Roosevelt and Yonkers Raceways on the outskirts of New York City. They can't stand the sunlight.

In 1957, attendance at the five-day meeting at Historic Track, America's oldest trotting oval, was only 9,200. That many people would rattle around the Roosevelt Raceway clubhouse. A year ago, the total pari-mutuel handle for the big little meeting at Goshen, 65 miles northwest of New York City, was a mere $259,354. That much is wagered on a single race at Roosevelt Raceway.

YET FOR THE 104TH year the finest trotters and pacers are inaugurating daylight racing on the Grand Circuit in the East here in the meeting ending on July 4. This comes close to being racing strictly for racing people. It's the annual gathering of the clan in the unique, picturesque plant across the road from the Orange County Court House. The standardbred Hall of Fame is just down the street.

Mrs. E. Roland Harriman was working Sharpshooter, favorite in the $120,000 Hambletonian Stake, Aug. 27. He is owned by her husband and Elbridge T. Gerry. Mrs. Harriman drove Tassel Hanover to a world record of 2:01 4-5 on this legendary strip eight years ago.

Sharpshooter, the two-year-old champion trotter of last year, is so curious that he has to wear blinders to keep his mind on his work. The brown son of Worthy Boy chews up a pack of cigarettes at a gulp, but smoking near his stall annoys him.

SHARPSHOOTER IS SOMETHING in the way of a Silky Sullivan. He is likely to trail the field, apparently not caring much, but really lets go when he rounds into the stretch. If anyone yawns in front of him, he yawns right back.

On Sharpshooter, of course, it looks like a big horse laugh—and that is precisely what he hopes to give his rivals in the Historic Dickerson Cup on July 2, the first of the Hambletonian previews.

Just a few steps inside the entrance gate to Historic Track is a stone marking the world record performances of Uhlman (1911) when he trotted the mile in 2:02 3/4 and Greyhound (1937) when he negotiated the same distance at the same gait in 1:59 3/4, which still stands as the mark.

In the center field is the grave, with a suitable marker, of E. H. Harriman's Stamboul, 2:07 1/2. At the upper turn in the oak tree under which Messenger, foundation sire of the trotting gait, grazed in 1800-1801.

THIS ALMOST FORGOTTEN little bit meeting is comparable to Saratoga in the running horse world. This is because the stickout two-year-olds come out here for the first time.

Out of this tremendous meeting—racing-wise—will come new champions—such as those of the misty past—Stamboul, Uhlman, Goldsmith Maid, Proximity, Titan Hanover and Star's Pride.

So much for tradition. The total purses here come to approximately $120,350. Because this meeting in its bucolic setting doesn't appeal to the horse player of today, who is interested only in winning a bet, each edition loses money. But those who consider the horse first have five pleasant afternoons, so E. Roland Harriman and Ebbey Gerry, the bankers, write off the loss.

E. H. Harriman, the railroad builder and founder of their fortune, drove horses here, you see.

And it is refreshing to be reminded each year that there is some sentiment left in racing.

CHICAGO (AP) — "I'll never get any closer," smiled Billy Pierce after pitching 8 2-3 innings of perfect baseball only to have his bid for immortality ruined by pinch batter Ed Fitz Gerald's double.

With the Chicago White Sox leading Washington, 3-0, and two out in the ninth, Fitz Gerald was summoned to bat for pitcher Russ Kemmerer. He swung at Pierce's first offering and sent a clean shot down the right field line for a double.

A crowd of 11,300 — cheering Pierce's every motion from the seventh inning on — sat stunned even after Pierce struck out Albie Pearson to end the game. Their boss for Fitz Gerald turned into cheers for Pierce only when the 31-year-old left-hander reached the Sox dugout.

Pierce, a 20-game winner the last two seasons, now has pitched shutouts in his last three starts to run his career total to 29.

"It was a curve ball and he hit it," said Pierce. "He was loose and swinging and there's nothing that can be done about it. It was almost as good a hit as the one I got in the third inning."

Pierce opened the third with a double to left and rode home on Jim Landis' single for the only run he needed. The Sox added another pair on Sherm Lollar's two-run single in the eighth and the tension mounted as Pierce began warming up in the ninth.

Ken Aspromonte led off the ninth and bounced what appeared to be a hit through the box only to have shortstop Luis Aparicio make his second brilliant stop of the night and throw Aspromonte out.

Catcher Steve Korchek stepped up, took a strike, swung and missed on the next pitch, fouled one off and finally struck out. Fitz Gerald came up and ruined Pierce's attempt to be the first pitcher to hurl a perfect regular season game in 36 years.

The last regular perfect game was by Charley Robertson of the White Sox against Detroit in 1922. Don Larsen of the New York Yankees accomplished the feat in the 1956 World Series against Brooklyn.

Ramon Monzant of the San Francisco Giants led the Carolina League in strikeouts in 1953. He fanned 232 for Danville, Va.

Apparently the owl went after the bait, became entangled in the line and drowned.

Convict Varner In Killing Of 15-Year-Old Boy

CALIFORNIA, Mo. (AP) — Tex Varner, 50, a dude ranch operator, Saturday was convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of a 15-year-old helper on a rival ranch.

The jury specified he should serve 10 years in prison for the ambush shooting of Larry Dale Irwin.

It was the second murder trial this year for the dapper Varner. In April, a jury acquitted him in the slaying of Irwin's boss, Edwin Boyesen, 46.

Boyesen and his young helper were investigating out fences when they were shot July 5 last year.

"I am not guilty of this crime and will eventually prove myself innocent," said Varner after the verdict.

Circuit Judge Claude E. Curtis granted Varner's attorneys 40 days to perfect motions for a new trial and an appeal. Varner remains at liberty in the meantime.

Varner's blonde wife and their three young children were with him in the courtroom to hear the verdict. Varner seemed stunned.

Mrs. Varner wept.

Varner held the riding ranch concession in the Lake of the Ozarks State Park until he was underbid in 1936. Boyesen then became foreman. Varner later set up a new stable and rodeo arena adjoining the park.

Testimony showed Varner threatened to kill Boyesen as they quarreled intermittently for a year. Boyesen put up makeshift barbed wire fences across bridge trails he said Varner was using in the park.

BIG ROUNDUP

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) — Bears, panthers, tigers, cats and dogs were all over the place — and so were kids and cops.

But it was the kids who had the cops hopping around the New York Central's freight station. The varmints were only cute, cuddly stuffed toys. And hordes of tots running merrily about, all seemed to have them.

It seemed three little boys had gotten into a boxcar and hauled out three cases of the stuffed toys which they hid under the station platform until "later."

Not very much later, though. Other youngsters discovered the treasure trove and it was a great day—until the big roundup began.

Man Hangs Self In Closet At Hospital

A 46 year old patient at Jacksonville State hospital slipped away quietly from other patients Friday evening, shut himself in a closet, and hanged himself.

The body was found about 8 p.m. on the floor, cords from a clothing sack having broken under the weight of the heavy-set man. The cords had been attached to an iron pipe.

Hospital officials said the suicide victim was Chester Juckavaki, a former resident of Cook county, who was committed to the local hospital eight years ago.

The body was found on the closet floor by attendants, who told Coroner Elmer Sample the patient could not have been there more than 25 or 30 minutes.

A jury was summoned and heard testimony of employees. A verdict of death by strangulation caused by hanging, with suicidal intent, was returned.

Harold Petefish was jury foreman, other members being Leroy Sellers, Frank Lockman, Henry Brodensick, John Wahl, and John DeFrate.

PRESIDENT SIGNS DEFENSE MEASURE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday signed a bill extending the 1939 Defense Production Act for two more years, until June 30, 1940.

The act was to expire Monday. The administration had asked for an extension, saying the authority is needed to assure prompt performance on contracts for guided missiles and other essential defense procurement.

Under the act, the President may establish priorities for defense contracts. It also gives him limited power to allocate materials for defense purposes.

The President also has authority to make loans and purchases to build up defense capacity and to establish a reserve of trained executives to fill government positions in time of mobilization.

Catch-All Farm Bill Opposed By Simpson Defeated By House

An "omnibus" farm bill that carried such items as two price system for cotton and wheat, possible enlargement of the cotton acreage allotment although it is apparent that every bale raised this year will be sold to the government, and a program for the analysis and evaluation of foreign books, was defeated by the House Thursday by a 214-171 vote.

Opponents to the bill, 162 Republicans and 52 Democrats, charged it would cost taxpayers $1.7 billions and would be of doubtful benefit to farmers.

This view was shared by Congressman Sid Simpson, who had voted against the bill when it was in committee. At one time the bill included a version of the food stamp plan that has been battled around Washington for the past generation.

The proposed bill would have suspended the classification of corn as a basic commodity for the next three years, putting it on the same basis as feed grains.

Diverted Acre Problem

"The very reason that this feed grain section is a matter of controversy," Simpson said in subcommittee hearings, "is the fact that the South, when they voted in acreage controls and marketing quotas on cotton, refused to take any control of these diverted acres. As most everyone knows, they planted grain sorghum and anything else that they desired, and that would grow in these diverted cotton acres, creating a surplus of feed grains. Furthermore, they went into the hog, cattle, and dairy business on a large scale. The feed grain section calls for a referendum, even specifying the form of ballot to be used, giving the feed grain and corn farmer the opportunity of voting for a program of price support, or it gives him the privilege of voting for no program. It makes it possible for the feed grain raisers in the South to vote strict controls on the northern corn farmer. The total result would be whatever the northern corn farmer, the total result of the combination of southern feed grain voters, mostly sorghum farmers, and the northern corn farmers. "For all intent and purposes, it makes corn lose its identity. It calls for payment in kind; such as, if a corn or sorghum farmer were allotted by the ASC committee 100 acres of corn with which he would be in compliance, if he further cut this 100 acres to 80, he would be given 20 acres of production in kind and in cash from commodity credit warehouses to the extreme limit of $75 per acre.

Complicated Plan

"He could in some instances take a certificate and sell the corn that was given to him in the payment in kind. This Feed Grain Subcommittee had a total membership of seven; four from the South and three members of the corn belt area; namely, Hoeven of Iowa, Harvey of Indiana, who is an actual 450-acre farmer, and myself.

"I certainly do not like the northern corn belt commercial corn farmer being compelled to go to a referendum election and vote in order to keep the southern feed grain people from voting a line on the northern farmer, if that provision carries. In other words, it is exactly like the wheat situation where you can be fined if you overplant. There has never been any compulsion about the corn program, and I have constantly called this to the attention of the commercial corn growers in the corn belt. I think the compulsion section of the feed grain bill, if adopted in referendum, would further curtail a livestock producer who raises all the corn he can and must go out and buy more to feed hogs and cattle.

Foreign Trade and Books

"The First Title, 'Foreign Trade,' was the extension of Public Law 480, which calls for the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities to foreign nations. Section 106 of Title I called for programs outside the United States for the analysis and evaluation of foreign books, periodicals, and other materials; for the registry, indexing, binding, reproduction, cataloging, abstracting, translating and dissemination of books, periodicals, and other materials and the deposit thereof in libraries and research centers in the United States specializing in the areas to which they relate. In other words, under Public Law 480, disposing of agricultural surpluses, the committee overstepped itself in foreign affairs and education. I voted against this provision of Public Law 480 even though I am for disposing of agricultural surpluses otherwise."

The section dealing with milk production and the establishment of a Federal Dairy Board found the least agreement among the agriculture committee members, Simpson said.

The chairman of the subcommittee stated he doubted whether it would work or not. If the quota is voted on milk (and I don't know how you can tell on a fresh cow in May or June how much milk she can give), it means a person with 30 cows could be assessed as much as $450 per annum based on an average milk production. It called for the creation of a Federal Dairy Board. I dislike compulsion about the dairy business and placing dairy farmers subject to being fined $450 or any amount. This could run as high as $1500 per year on a 30-cow herd with a 10,000-pound per cow average."

EXTENSION COUNCIL LEADERS CONVENE

Nearly 200 of the state's top agricultural and home economics leaders met Thursday and Friday on the University of Illinois campus to review current problems and opportunities as they affect the work of the agricultural extension service.

Morgan county was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Thompson of Chapin. They were accompanied by Farm Adviser George A. Trull and Home Adviser Hazel Graves.

The conference started Thursday evening following dinner at the Men's Residence Hall with a discussion on "The Changing Pattern of Opportunities for Young People."

TO JUDGE LIVESTOCK AT URBANA TUESDAY

Some 800 Illinois 4-H club members will compete in the state judging contest at the University of Illinois Tuesday.

Assistant Farm Adviser Bob Hayward, Jr., announces that Morgan county will be represented by a fat stock judging team and a dairy judging team. The livestock squad includes Clyde Werries, route 1; William Davies, route 5; Daniel Hembrough, route 5; Loren Becker, route 2; Bob Hadden, route 1, and Alan Petefish, Ashland.

Gilbert Allen, route 2, and Melvin Thies, route 2, will judge dairy cattle.

French Must Compromise

The predicament of France continues to be grave. Premier Charles de Gaulle, in his short time at the helm, has not found among his countrymen an overwhelming wish to be saved from their own failures.

The extreme rightists, who played the key role in elevating the general to power, are disillusioned with their "saviour." Wanting Algeria held tightly to France, they rate his proposals for greater Algerian freedom a virtual selling out.

And they see him as a captive of what they call "the system," by which they mean the weary, vacillating politicians who have helped so much to bring France to its present low estate.

Those politicians, of course, never wanted De Gaulle in the first place. They took him reluctantly, to avert a violent seizure of power that could have plunged France into civil war.

Now the most reluctant of all, the Socialists, are voicing their own disillusionment. Into many of his moves they read a veering to the right.

De Gaulle has never numbered among his formal backers the extreme Communist left. It is not wholly clear how they really felt about his coming to power.

But it is utterly plain that they would welcome his failure if it gave them opportunity to join in a Popular Front government and thus bore toward the central core of power. It is conceivable they might even be glad for civil war, on the chance they might emerge triumphant from the strife.

No one with any sense expects the Communists to think of France first in this crisis. But the rightists profess to rate their country high.

Still, if they do, how can they press so defiantly against the only French leader who seems to have any hope of preserving their land free?

What they want for Algeria is unacceptable to many Frenchmen and appears to promise nothing but further bloody war with the Algerians.

The politicians they complain of are, for better or for worse, France. They cannot be totally ignored except in the extremity of a dictatorship. To shove them aside could be to invite civil war that might destroy the very thing they say they want to save: their country.

De Gaulle's mission is to remove the Algerian issue, not sharpen it, and to set new constitutional rules under which the mass of Frenchmen—and their representatives—may lift themselves up to new resolve and achievement.

To gain these ends he needs the full support of all who love France. To give this backing, all Frenchmen save the Communists are counted upon to compromise their differences, whether hairline or extreme.

Compromise is one of the high arts of living the French have never learned. For them, at this stage, it could be the art of survival.

Whither TV?

So many television programs come and go these days that the fellow looking at that screen must feel like he's in a revolving door.

They wore out the comedians and the situation comedies. Live, serious drama has bitten the dust in most places. A good many variety shows have tumbled.

About all that's left now are the crime shows, the westerns, the quizzes, and the ratings which so impress the trade.

Who knows how long the viewer will cock an ear to the sound of gunfire, horses' hooves, and the quizmaster's cash register? And when those things go, what will the ratings have left to rate?

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Crosby has managed to escape the daytime-TV stigma by slipping into Perry Como's easy shoes.

But it wasn't easy. Baritone Bob thrived for 4½ years on a CBS afternoon show, and he considers it the greatest experience in the world. But he also put a frost on his career.

"I can't understand the network thinking," he sighed. "They believe because a guy has been on daytime television that he can't do anything else."

"I think that's ridiculous, just as I think the networks have underestimated the daytime viewer. I have found that people who watch TV during the day are just as sharp and demanding as those who watch at night. Yet the standard of daytime programming gets progressively worse."

Bob said he had done nothing on TV since going off his daytime show last October, and he blamed the attitude of the TV moguls for his inactivity. The break came when NBC was searching for a singer to sub for lazy Perry during the summer months. And who can be more relaxed than a Crosby?

"I'm very happy with the way the show has worked out," Bob remarked. "It's an easy show to do, especially since I've had the experience of doing the daytime program. I learned to take everything in stride then."

"The only trouble is that I have to do the show in New York. I'm not rich enough to commute—that's the other Crosby—and there's nothing to do in New York during the summer. To go out for a round of golf is a major production."

But after a trip here to play the home show, he'll hole up in New York and stay there. He figures it's worth it to get out of the daytime-TV stigma.

The reviews on Bob have been good, and he gets a similar, though qualified, reaction in his family. His mother wired him that she liked the show, but couldn't have more violins in the orchestra because she doesn't like jazz.

"The summer budget on the Como show is cut in half," Bob explained, "and we don't have any violins."

WOODEN SHOES
NEW YORK (AP)—Wood is being used by one leading manufacturer as an insulator in golf shoes. Specially fabricated birch wood is inserted between the innersole and outsole of these shoes.

The foundation inserts, the manufacturer says, lessen foot fatigue, insulate the feet against sunbaked fairways, act as a barrier against cold and dampness, and prove a firmer golf stance.

Brash Benson—Non Grata—Fame—

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, who has a few American farmers irritated with him, now can add about 500 Washington socialites to his anti-Benson club.

Other afternoon, there were at least 500 persons waiting in line in front of the Pan American Union to meet visiting Philippine President Carlos Garcia at a big reception. Arriving congressmen, senators, two and three-star generals, high ranking diplomats and other notables all promptly moved up at the rear of the slow moving line.

But not farmer Benson. He stepped out of his limousine, took one look at the line, whispered something to his wife and bulled his way through the door in front of everyone else with Mrs. B on his heels.

"They should have kept that guy locked up in his own soil bank," one society matron cracked.

Vendo, a big vending machine company, threw an automatic serve-yourself luncheon the other day as a promotional gimmick for a new mechanical dispenser which sells hot canned foods. The company provided a waiter to work the dispenser.

But within 15 minutes, he let the lids drop into six cans of tomato soup, splashed beef stew on a prominent columnist and cut two fingers. Reporters finally decided the luncheon would be more successful without any help.

They excused the waiter and opened the cans themselves without a single accident.

A Woman Who lives down the street from Vice President Nixon called to complain:

"Since his South American trip, there have been so many tourists driving by to look at the Nixon's house that it's not safe for the children to cross the street any more."

Dean Of The Diplomatic Corps, Nicaraguan Ambassador Sevilla-Sacasa, is a real die-hard when it comes to the Washington Senators baseball team. "Just because the team happens to be in last place right now doesn't mean a thing," he says.

"As soon as Roy Sievers starts hitting all those home runs again our Nats will at least move up to sixth place and if they end the season there I'll be happy," he philosophizes.

At the end of each season the ambassador throws a big luncheon for the team at the embassy.

Dutch Diplomats the other day passed out a novelty guide book to Rotterdam. A sentence in it stated:

"If our physicians fail to help you, we respectfully refer you to the services of the Black Guild, our excellent undertakers' union."

Biggest Skeptic at a Statler Hotel party given to introduce a new cognac and iced coffee drink was a French diplomat.

"In Paris we would never dilute cognac with coffee," he said. Being a diplomat, however, he consented to try a second one.

An hour later, the host noticed that our diplomat had five empty glasses on his table.

"I didn't think you liked coffee and cognac," he said.

"Well," the diplomat replied, "that was before I found out the waiter had forgotten to put any cognac in my first drink."

The fact that the husband of Rep. C. Knutson (D-Minn.) has made a public plea for her to get out of politics and stay home, is now going to campaign against her husband's reelection.

In a speech the other day she told the following story:

"I'm reminding you of the time the mother brought me to the club. The chair lady was trying desperately to get order. Finally she said, 'Before I begin my address I want it to be so quiet we can hear a pin drop.'"

"The requested silence promptly followed, when suddenly the precocious lad called out, 'OK, lady, let'er drop.'"

Politicians, who predict that the Sherman Adams gift-taking rumpus will have every facet of administration policy, are starting to see their crystal gazing come true. Democratic punsters are already joking about the "Adams for Peace" program. Next, of course, someone will crack that an "Adams bomb" was dropped on the White House.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Nothing is lonelier or more futile than a proposal that members of Congress pass a law to police themselves. Sen. Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.) has offered a bill to do that. You can kiss it goodbye.

Yet members of Congress—particularly Republicans running for reelection—have been among the harshest critics of Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant, for doing favors for his gift-giving friend Bernard Goldfine.

Neuberger, who makes no apologies for Adams, has said: "The inconsistency between the rules which Congress with a great show of righteousness later imposes on executive officials and its failure to apply identical standards to its own members undoubtedly has reflected adversely on the reputation of Congress in the public mind."

He suggests: "The doctor ought to have to swallow some of his own medicine."

His bill would compel members of Congress and high government officials once a year to file a report on the sources and amount of each item of income or gifts—including speaking or writing fees—and a statement of assets and liabilities and dealings in securities or commodities during the previous year.

Neuberger is just the latest of a number of liberal senators, who, over recent years, have suggested that Congress set up by law some ethical standards covering conduct of its own members.

Earlier this year, while Congress was poking around the activities of members of the Federal Communications Commission, Neuberger wrote in the New York Times: "If federal commissioners are to be pilloried for accepting hacienda suites at Palm Springs or airplane tickets to Palm Beach, how can senators and representatives continue profitable associations with law firms retained by banks, railroads, labor unions and utility companies?"

He's said more this month, both before and after the disclosures about Adams: "Under existing law no official or employee of the executive agencies can leave his public post and press any pending private matter before his old bureau or department before two years have elapsed."

"However, no such restraint applies to members of Congress who quit the House or Senate. They can act as lobbyists or representatives for private interests immediately, even on questions of such pending before committees on which they recently served."

Neuberger said further: "Committees of Congress require cabinet appointees of the President to divest themselves of stock holdings in corporations that have business dealings with the federal department," which these appointees will administer.

"Yet members of the Senate and House can own shares or partnerships in businesses that are directly affected by legislation which these senators or representatives are drafting or voting upon."

Members of Congress, to get more money for their expenses, make speeches for perhaps as much as $1,000 a talk before groups virtually interested in legislation pending before Congress.

Members of Congress get elected with the help of campaign funds fattened by contributions from labor unions, distilleries, sawmills, gas and oil corporations, power companies, airlines and mines, all with interest in legislation before Congress.

Throughout all his arguments Neuberger keeps raising the question: "Who is going to police the policeman?" The answer—based on what Congress has done to all previous suggestions like Neuberger's—is: no one.

Businessman Has Retirement Career 'In the Cabinet'

BY MARIE DAEIR

At 54, L.A. doesn't intend to retire from his management consulting business for at least another 10 years.

But he's already deep in a hobby that may mean a second career for him.

At least, it will guarantee him excitement, instead of a rocking-chair routine, when he has dictated his last letter, kept his last office appointment.

"Four years ago, I decided fine cabinetmaking offered a real challenge as a hobby, now and later," L.A. says. "It's creative. And it's worlds removed from my job."

"I bought tools and books but I couldn't seem to get anywhere. Finally I located a class in the subject in New York City, where I must spend about three-fourths of my business time."

"The teachers were three German-born craftsmen who really knew cabinetmaking. Luckily for me, I travel to far places on business. Wherever I go, I pick up pieces of rare wood."

The woods, acquired also by trade and purchase from collectors, go into the basement of L.A.'s home in a western city. Also in the basement are power and hand tools, a veneer press and other equipment.

There L.A. turns out bowls, trays, beautifully inlaid plates and even small pieces of furniture.

"The best present anyone can give me is a fine piece of wood," L.A. says. "I have beefwood from British Guiana, olive wood from Palestine, amaranth from Africa, pink ivory from a tree the Zulus consider sacred."

L.A. admits his hobby costs money, but he maintains it also can be enjoyed inexpensively.

"You can spend as much time and as many dollars on this as you choose," L.A. says. "I consider it about the best investment in the future I can make."

Q—What do you do about an older person who insists on doing more than her share of housework? My mother, who is 80, insists on tackling jobs that I am certain are too much for her. I get really scared at what could happen if she continues to overdo.—Mrs. J.W.

A—A doctor who has a reputation for his success with older patients tells me that most oldsters know pretty well how much they can "take." It isn't wise to urge them to do something, or go out, when they're not feeling up to it. But, more important, don't discourage them when they're full of pep and want to be up and doing. A squelch can do more harm than sweeping the floor or weeding the flower bed.

Q—Can a retired railroad worker receive both railroad retirement benefits and Social Security?—M.D.

A—Yes, if he has at least 10 years of railroad service and also has done enough work under Social Security to qualify for payments.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT
How God Speaks to Man

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
The Bible has been perhaps the most abused of all books.

And I think most of the abuse has arisen from the failure to recognize the true nature of the Bible, and what it has to say about itself. I am sure that the Bible, rightly approached and read, is its own best interpreter.

The Bible, it ought to be noted, is an Eastern book. It has come out of the Orient, where life and literature, as well as the books of the Bible, have been marked with imagination, figures of speech and colorful stories and allusions.

Those usages are quite at variance with the hard literalism of Western usage, and especially the very hard literalism of all too many utterly prosaic and literal Bible readers.

Another abuse of the Bible arises from the failure to assess the fact that our English Bible is a translated book. This involves the theory of "verbal inspiration," once commonly held but not so widely held today.

That theory has to do with belief in the inspiration of the actual words rather than in the Bible's revelation and teaching.

I was brought up under the influence of that verbal theory. I remember what a shock it was in my early student days when I learned that there was not in existence the original manuscript of a single book of the Bible.

I learned that the oldest manuscripts then known were long after the time of Christ, and that the ancient manuscripts differed enough to rule out the idea of verbal accuracy and identity with the original words as Bible writers had written them.

Actually, I was to learn that these variations were of only slight importance and did not affect in any way the meanings and value of the Bible as the Book of salvation, and of God's guidance for humans in life.

In fact, I think that in this connection the various versions of the Bible have been greatly overrated.

I have many of these versions by me as I write and despite various wordings, there isn't a single one of these versions that does not offer all man needs for salvation and guidance.

Much of the abuse of the Bible has arisen from neglecting what the Bible itself has to say.

The notion of the Bible as coming from writers who simply held the pen that God moved in is in direct contrast with II Peter 2:21. "Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

The Bible came out of human experience. Men had to live it before they could write it. And we in turn must experience and live it if we would find its blessings, its salvation and its power.

The Bible in its many books incorporates strength, beauty, and power does not need man-made theories to uphold it. It needs only to be read and taken into mind and heart for what it is.

Manners Make Friends

The sooner you answer letters the easier it will be for you to keep up with your correspondence. For a letter that is answered promptly can usually be answered more briefly than a letter that has been put off.

Why have to begin with excuses for its delay and write a longer letter to try to make up for a long writing noogie.

Three-Month Vacation Gives Rough Time to Some Parents

It was a group of husbands and wives, but the women were doing most of the talking. The subject: their plans for their children's summer vacation.

One wife said they were sending all three children to summer camps and she was exhausted from buying camp clothes and equipment and sewing in name tapes and taking them for medical and dental check-ups. Her husband asked wryly if anyone knew how much it cost to keep three kids in camp.

Another wife had all her children enrolled in summer courses. Swimming classes for two, gymnastics for one, art for another. She figured that chauffeuring them back and forth would keep her hopping.

A third wife said she was taking the children to the family's lakeside cabin and her husband would get down on weekends "when he could." He would be batching it while Mama and the children got away from the heat.

Then a husband, whose wife hadn't been heard from, spoke up and said: "I've taken care of the summer plans of our three. I told Joe, who is 13, that his allowance stopped one week after school ended. That gives him a week in which to find a job. So he'll be busy earning his own spending money."

"And I told the girls I want Jane to be able to take it a bit easier this summer. They are going to be responsible for part of the housework. Both have their jobs, and while they are helping make Jane's summer a little less hectic, they will also be learning how to run a house, something they'll both probably be doing in not too many years."

So there's one man's answer to what to do with the kids in summer—let them become contributing members of the family circle. And it is my guess that his children will finish the summer just as healthy and happy and far more self-reliant than the children whose parents are paying hard-earned money to have someone else keep them busy for three months.

Sanitation Best Weapon Against The House Fly

House flies, one of the most annoying insects Mother Nature ever produced, wages a continuous battle against insecticides. No sooner does a chemical seem effective against flies than they develop an immunity to its killing powers.

But house flies never develop an immunity to sanitation, points out H. B. Petty, entomologist with the University of Illinois and Illinois Natural History Survey. Sanitation is therefore the basic step to successful control of house flies.

Petty explains that house flies lay their eggs in moist, decaying organic material. Soon tiny maggots hatch and feed on the bacteria and yeasts in the fermenting material. The maggots gradually pass through several more stages. Within 6 to 20 days the cycle is complete and the adult fly emerges.

Unless flies are controlled, up to 20 generations a year can occur in Illinois. Eliminating them is important not only because they are a nuisance, but also because they spread such diseases as typhoid fever and dysentery.

Best Way—Clean Up
Here are eight steps suggested by Petty to eliminate house flies from homes or farms:

1. Dispose of moist, decaying material like rotting straw, manure and garbage. Also, clean-fly-breeding areas twice a week. This includes calf pens, bull pens, feeding platforms and garbage pails. Use chemicals only after the areas have been thoroughly cleaned.

2. Screen windows and doors in buildings. Electric grids on house and barn doors may give some help. As a general rule, traps are not very effective.

3. Control maggots in their breeding areas. Borax dusts or granules are excellent for use around garbage pails. However, treating manure frequently with borax may increase the boron content.

Moving Day

The sight of a moving van backed up to the ranch-style house in the Administration Building area makes all of us feel a little sad this morning. For the past ten years the Boggess family have lived in this house. They are now moving to Urbana, where Randy will teach in the new forestry program and continue research in the Department of Forestry.

But our loss will be Urbana's gain of a neighborly family, vitally interested and active in school and community affairs. Here at the Experiment Station we'll miss Randy's help. Although his job was research forestry, he never failed to respond to a call for help with extension activities, such as tours, radio, TV, and news stories.

We'll also remember Randy for introducing us to a microdendrometer, a gadget for measuring the diameter growth of trees in such minute readings that weekly growth measurements could be made. We felt that this was the very end in gadgets until recently, when Randy installed on the trees recording instruments, called dendrographs, which provide hour-to-hour records of change in tree diameters. And they work!

We are going to miss the Boggesses, but they will be back from time to time. In fact, during the week of July 14 Randy will be back on the Station with forestry students for the first week of summer camp.

Nitrogen for Forage Sorghums
Forage sorghum plants spaced three inches apart in 40-inch rows out-yielded other plant spacings of 6, 9 and 12 inches. Silage yields for the various spacings were as follows: 3-inch—12.8 tons per acre; 6-inch—11.9 tons; 9-inch—10.8

tons per acre. Nitrogen at the rate of 100 pounds per acre side-dressed on the sorghums was of much greater value on the closer spacings, yielding as follows: 3-inch—17.9 tons; 6-inch—14.3 tons; 9-inch—12.1 tons; and 12-inch—10.5 tons per acre.

Pasture Mowing
Pasture mowing does more than just improve the looks of a pasture. Down here mowing is necessary to control sprouts, which become a variable forest on unmowed pastures. But, in addition, mowing once, twice or three times a year has kept the weed population to less than 8 percent of the cover, while unmowed plots had a weed cover of 49 to 62 percent, depending upon soil treatment.

Keep 'em mowed—and remember the purebred ram sale at the Station, Thursday, July 10.

Jim's Big Surprise

By D. W. Hendrickson

Part 4: Strange Meeting
Jim is trying to be polite to his visiting cousin, Ted, but it's hard since Ted doesn't swim, play ball or much of anything. They take Ted's small dog out to see Jim's big collie—a bit worried about the small dog.

The boys went out and Fluff ran to the middle of the yard, then seeing Duke, stood still. Duke did indeed look as if he welcomed company. He trotted up to Fluff with his tail waving like a banner, ears tipped forward, and mouth open in a dozy smile that let a length of red tongue hang out.

Fluff waited until Duke was close, then with a sharp yip jumped for Duke's forehead. With collie quickness, the big dog leaped back and to the side, untouching, but his tail stopped waving and his eyes rounded in surprise.

Then, seeming to decide that friendship is worth a little effort, Duke layed down, put his head flat on his paws and folded his ears down and so far back that the tips almost touched. Fluff went slowly toward the collie, but Duke's only movement was a hesitant wag of the very tip of his tail.

"Well, let's go in. Looks like they're going to get along all right," Jim said without much conviction in his tone.

"Yeah," hesitated Ted, "guess I was worried about the wrong dog."

Having Fun With Stamps

By Joe Smith

Do you like stories or to find out the history behind some historical event? Did you know that there is a story behind every postage stamp either new or old?

Well it's true! Every stamp be it U.S. or from some far away land has a story to tell. In a way a stamp album is a history book for great events in history have been pictured on stamps, works of art reproduced, pictures of great people printed, nature subject such as the Iceland Herring pictured (honoring the great fisheries there) etc.

Although the main purpose of a stamp is to pay the cost of getting a letter to its destination, some collect money for other good causes also. They go to every portion of the globe, as nearly every country issues stamps.

Kind of Collections

We will have, generally speaking, one of these types of collections: (1) General all over the world wide. (2) Stamps of only one country such as U.S.A. (3) Stamps about a single subject such as Boating, nature, famous men etc. (4) Precancelled stamps. (5) Meter stamps. These are but a few of the many possible fields for the collector.

Now to start our collection it's best to make either a general world wide or U.S.A. postage stamp collection to begin with. An album to keep your stamps in will range in cost from 25c to several dollars, but a good first album should not cost over one dollar. A package of a thousand stamp hinges is needed too.

We will get our stamps by either buying a packet (the largest you can afford), trading with other collectors, watching all letters you receive from a stamp dealer, or by buying stamps from an approved selection. The last is the best but more expensive. If corresponding with a distant friend why not ask him (or her) to save you stamps from that country?

A free copy of the "Stamp Finder" may be obtained by writing a post card to the Philatelic Institute, P.O. Box 30, Cambridge, 39, Mass.

All collectors would do well to buy an inexpensive set of tongs and a small magnifying glass. The watermark detector is most useful also, and a perfectionist might like a MUST as aid in identifying a particular stamp.

To the serious collector, the Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue is more often used than any other book when it comes to identifying and evaluating a particular stamp.

There's loads of fun and facts to be found in stamps; try it and see! Many famous people have and do collect them.

Beans

When we speak of Beans we refer to the seeds of many different kinds of plants. These include the so-called dry beans such as the Navy, Red Kidney, Pinto, and the beans we eat pod and all such as the green wax and lima.

The same kind of bean may have a different name in another section of our country. For example, lima beans are commonly called "butter beans" in the South.

In New England the wax bean is sometimes called the "butter bean." Almost all the different kinds of beans in the world had their start in the Americas, with most of them having originated in South America.

Carried On Ships
In the 1500's beans were carried from the Americas to all parts of the world by ships since beans could be stored for long periods of time. In those days of long voyages across the oceans, the bean consequently made an ideal storage food to replenish the ships' food supply.

Beans, along with maize (a primitive form of our modern corn) were the two main foods of the American Indians.

The Indians invented the combination of beans and corn kernels which still today is called succotash.

Scientists and experimenting farmers in the past one hundred years have developed the many varieties of bush beans and tender-podded beans such as we know today.

Lounging in a bath of cold water during warm days won't give the relief most people expect it to. More lasting relief comes with a warm bath. Warm water draws heat from the body because it dilates blood vessels. In this way the heat reaches the surface and escapes through the skin.

About The Atom

By Joseph A. Smith

COSMIC RAYS

You and I can see there are mysterious Cosmic Rays from outer space and the atom at work with only a few simple household things.

We'll need a peanut-butter jar, some dry ice, a piece of weather strip, a black velvet strip, a disk of black velvet, a one pound coffee can, and some cardboard.

First we half fill the coffee can with dry ice and set it aside.

Now to make our Wilson type cloud chamber, first we use a rubber cement to fasten a length of weatherstrip inside the jar next to the bottom. Secondly cement a black velvet strip around the inside of the jar mouth. Thirdly cement a black velvet disk to the underside of the jar mouth. Fourthly saturate the felt strip with alcohol and leave about an eighth inch in the bottom of the jar.

Now put on the lid, turn the jar upside down, and place it on the dry ice in the coffee can. Place your hand on the jar's inverted base to heat it up a bit. Focus a bright light beam through the jar, and watch closely from above.

In Just 5 Minutes
Within five minutes the warm vapor will condense and a continuous rain of fine droplets will appear first near the top. After 5 or 10 minutes, the fog or rain decreases and, if the temperature is right, you will see cobweb-like threads of Cosmic Rays appear and disappear. Now hold a watch with a luminous dial about an inch from the side of the jar. Some of the Alpha and Gamma particles thrown off by the Radium in the dial paint will enter the jar and ionize a stream of atoms. The alcohol and water vapor in the jar will condense upon these ions resulting in vapor trails. Try this trick with several watches since not all watches will throw off enough particles to successfully enable one to see these traces of Radium rays.

If your cloud chamber stops working just turn it back right side up to rewet the weatherstrip, and then re-invert placing again on the dry ice. Light drafts should reappear.

You will find this described in "Science Magic" by Kenneth M. Swezy.

The Philippine Republic became independent July 4, 1946. There are more than 35 names for the small mouth bass.

You Can Make This

By Rip Barnsdall

PLAY MONEY

It's always a good idea to have your own paper money around in case you want to play a game where you will need some. Here is a way that you can make your own paper money, and lots of it too!

Materials needed—paper hand printing outfit. How to Do It—You can use almost any type of paper to make your money, although I'm going to tell you about a kind of paper that works better than any other kind. You can find this kind of paper at a stationary or office supply store.

Ask the clerk if he has any broken packages of 20 pound mimeograph paper on hand. Mimeograph paper usually comes in many colors, red, green, blue, yellow, and white, and also other shades. Ask the clerk if you could buy about ten sheets of each color.

If he has some broken packages, a broken package being one out of which some paper has already been sold, chances are they won't cost very much. Twenty pound mimeograph paper is very similar in finish to real money, and it will hold up quite awhile when you are playing with it. Of course, you may use other paper if you desire, but it won't stand up as well.

Cut It Up
After you have gotten your paper, rule it off into sections that are four inches long by two inches wide. Then cut them out with a pair of scissors. If you know of someone that has a paper cutter (possibly the one at school) the cutting out part will be done much easier by using one of these than by using scissors.

When the paper is all cut and ready to be printed on, get out your hand printing outfit, or one that you have borrowed from a friend of yours. Decide which color will stand for one dollar bills and so on. Then print up each piece until you have finished making up all of the paper money that you want!

Jeannie Studies Creature World

By Melma Huckleby Ewert

The Tick

Days and weeks went by, with Daddy working long hours in his out-doors-la-ba-ra-to-ry near the pasture. He was hunting a cure for his sick calves that had been bitten by ticks.

Jeannie, days ago, had placed Mr. Tick's picture in her Rogue's

Gallery and had finished her book for Daddy had told her that Mite and Tick were her best creatures until she should begin to study insects.

Jeannie spent much time with Daddy at the pasture-laboratory, riding Calico the four miles, often making a special trip home to tell Mother-Dear how Daddy was getting along.

Finds Cure!
Then came a Thursday! Mid-afternoon! "It has worked!" said Doctor Daddy.

Jeannie and Daddy that Thursday evening, came galloping home together.

Mother-dear heard the rhythm of their horses' hoofs and ran clear into the yard to greet them. "Eureka! Eureka!" shouted Daddy to Mother-dear. "Eureka" means "I have found it!"

They dismounted. The horses turned and trotted to the barn. Daddy put his arm about little Mother-dear and as they walked to the house, told how "some calves were feverish; I injected my new serum into the blood stream every three hours. That was two days ago. Today they are as frisky as ever."

"You see, Dear," he said to Mother-dear, "I have found a microbe."

Jeannie spoke up, "a creature so little that millions of them can live in a place the size of a pin-head."

Daddy spoke, "These, Dear, devour that little pear-shaped microbe that makes the cattle sick."

Mother-dear had never been so proud of Doctor Daddy before. "This is my plan," he said, as he sat himself in his favorite chair on the veranda. "My formula must get to Washington at once. We are starting east Monday, you and Jeannie and I."

Jeannie could hardly believe her ears. Mother-dear hardly knew what to say.

Daddy talked on, "Cattle-men must get my serum at the very earliest, and it has to be made for distribution in some big scientific laboratory."

Surprise Letter
"We can be ready," smiled Mother-dear. "And, Darling, I have a surprise for Dr. Daddy!"

She handed him an official looking letter, post-marked "Sikeston, Missouri."

The letter told them that York Hill Farm was for sale.

Daddy sat back, the letter still in his hand. "We shall go to York Hill Farm from Washington. In that old log house, with its dirt-dobbin' chimneys, furnished just as it is, we shall all feel at home."

Jeannie can go to a real school. Later, Jeannie, you will go to High School in Sikeston."

He smiled at Jeannie who sat on a stool near him. Her elbows on her knees, her chin in her hands.

"Next summer," he promised, "we shall begin to learn about insects."

The Coin's Adventure

Part 2: Jiggling Song

By and by the sun shone on the little family of coins and they all grew warm and sleepy except the half dollar. It sparkled with every one of its stars.

Back came the gardener scuffling through the grass, then he stopped. "Where did you come from?" he asked, when he put his hand in his pocket, it was empty.

SCISSORS TAIL
By Ray Broekel

A long, rather pointed tail fin gives this fish its common name. Scientifically it is known as Rasbora trilineata.

It comes originally from the Malay Peninsula. Adults often reach a length of seven to eight inches, although generally they stay around three to four inches in an aquarium.

The scissora's tail is a peaceful fish—in fact, often too peaceful, as it will back away more often than it will stand up for its rights.

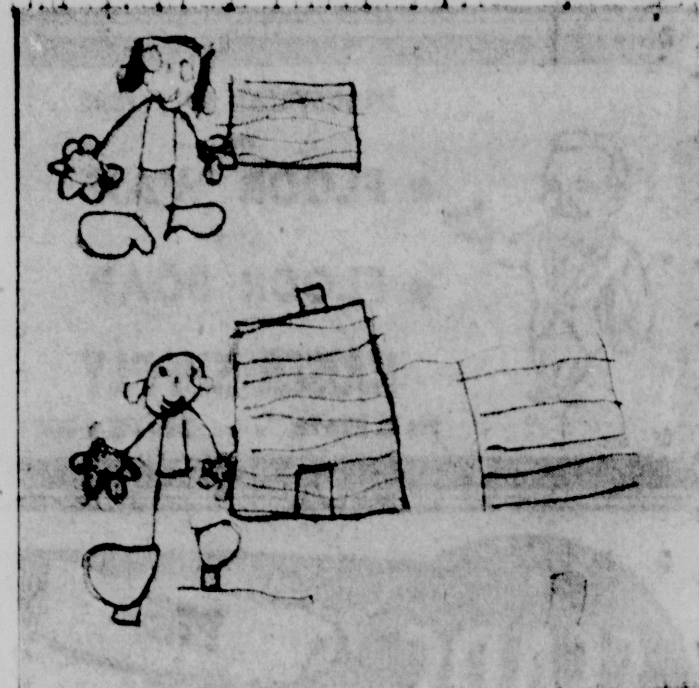

There is a faint bit of orange in the tail, with a black tip near the edge of each portion. The rest of the body is a faint silver in color.

When moving, this fish flicks its tail fin parts together, very much like the edges of a scissors coming together.

Most Imported
Scissora's tail is an egg layer—but extremely difficult to spawn in an aquarium. For this reason, most of them are imported—and for this reason are somewhat higher priced than other aquarium fishes.

PROTECTION

The length of chain hanging from the rear of a fuel truck is a simple precautionary measure against the accumulation of static electricity. Without the protective chain the truck could be turned into a blazing inferno.

Health protection measures should be taken, too. The most important is seeing your physician for a thorough physical examination at least once a year.

By doing so, you may avert a serious illness.

Walgreen Estate Garden Tour At Dixon Set For July 12 And 13

One of the high points of the summer for many people in Illinois and the surrounding states is the time when Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen opens her beautiful estate, Hazelwood, at Dixon, as a benefit for the Abraham Lincoln Memorial Garden.

The dates this year when Mrs. Walgreen will open Hazelwood will be Saturday and Sunday, July 12 and 13.

The Lincoln Garden, a sixty acre individual hobby—the Walgreen gun collection, the doll collection, the many items of Lincolniana, among them.

The dates this year coincide with the high bloom of the Hemerocallis (day lily). The number of varieties of this popular summer flower is probably larger than on any other private estate in the country.

Three Houses Included
Three houses will be open to visitors: the guest house which uses the framing of the barn erected more than a century ago; the log cabin which Lincoln visited and which has been in use continuously since it was erected and which now houses the dining room and kitchen on the estate; and lovely Cliff House, overlooking the Rock River, in which are the family apartments.

In each house hostesses, old friends of Mrs. Walgreen, will tell the stories of the buildings so fascinating in the details of construction and in the furnishings. Mrs. Walgreen, as is her custom, will be on hand to greet the visitors. Her warm hearted gaiety and friendliness set the key for the holiday atmosphere that prevails.

SHADOW PRESIDENTS—The storm of criticism directed against Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower because of Adams' acceptance of gifts from Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine, has placed this comparatively new government post in the limelight. The official title—"Assistant to the President"—was created by Harry S. Truman when he bestowed it on Dr. John R. Steelman. Steelman, however, was not the White House "chief of staff" in the sense that Adams is. But the evolution of the office can be traced to other presidents in this century who had advisors with great influence in the White House. William McKinley depended heavily on Cleveland financier Mark Hanna for political guidance. The first presidential advisor to rise to an "indispensable man" status comparable to Adams was Col. Edward M. House. "He is my second personality. He is my independent self," Woodrow Wilson said of him. House was special diplomatic representative for Wilson during World War I peace negotiations. The object of much criticism was Franklin D. Roosevelt's unofficial assistant president, Harry Hopkins, who served in numerous posts under Roosevelt.

GOLDEN TRAIL—Western wealth, old and new, shares a highway near Cortez, Colo., where a herd of cattle is overtaken by an oil truck. The truck is carrying crude oil from what may be the richest oil strike in U.S. history at the Four Corners area of the Rockies. The area gets its name from a small monument marking the only place in the nation where a person can stand in four states at once—Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah. Experts say the once barren wasteland may yield up to a billion barrels of oil.

TOWN TAMER
By FRANK CRUBER
© 1957 by Frank Cruber. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.
THE STORY: Tom Rosser, the "town tamer" of Great Plains, has been offered a new house for $150 by Joe Leach, who owns the livery stable. Leach is one of the business men of the town who oppose the lawless element of the frontier settlement.
THE doctor, a small winner in the game, stowed away his money. "If you want to see the town, I'll have a nightcap with you. Maybe two or three. I don't like to go to bed sober."
Kent steered him to a saloon only a little less large and slightly more ornate than Riley Condon's Pleasant Palace.
"Ken Rud's," he told Rosser as they entered the place. "The floors are clean now, but they won't be long. Rud likes them stained—with blood."
"Isn't he one of the city councilmen?"
Dr. Kent grunted. "I pay no attention to politics. He probably is a councilman. I expect to get a lot of business from here." He signaled to a scowling, dark-visaged man in a Prince Albert. The man came over.
"Marshal Rosser," Kent said. "Man who owns this place, Tom—Ken Rud."
"Marshal Rosser?" the saloon-keeper said thinly. "I was under the impression that Johnny Honsinger was elected marshal."
"Never heard of him. Rosser's killed more men than Honsinger will ever get in front of his gun."
"Doctor," Rud said, smiling icily. "you're a sharp tongue."
"And it's forked," the doctor chuckled. "Two fangs, like the rattlesnake." He caught up the bottle that the bartender brought and poured himself a glass. He tapped his chest and said to Rosser. "I'm a doctor, but I can't cure myself of t.b."
"I'm not a marshal," Rosser said mildly, watching the scowling face of Rud.
"I hope that you remember that," Rud growled. "Some talk that you've been leaning your weight around. I don't think the town'd like that—not when we've got an elected marshal and sheriff."
Rosser left Rud's saloon with the doctor, but outside it developed that they went in opposite directions. Rosser walked back to the hotel. As he neared the steps leading up to the veranda, he saw someone standing in the shadows near the door.
Then a voice spoke, "Mr. Rosser."
Rosser climbed the stairs, took a step to the right, out of the direct light from inside the hotel lobby. "Mrs. Tavenner."
"I've been rude to you," Susan Tavenner said.
"It's all right, Mrs. Tavenner," said Rosser.
"It isn't all right," she exclaimed poignantly. "Things haven't been well for some time. Guy's had a bad run of luck."
"All gamblers have them."
"GUY says that Great Plains will be a prosperous place. He believes his luck will turn. You've heard about you, Mr. Rosser. You're an officer of the law."
"Not any more."
"Then why did you come to Great Plains?"
Rosser hesitated. "I have a farm outside of town, a ranch. I guess you would call it. I plan to settle on it."
"Then you didn't come here to—
"To fight people like—like my husband or Mr. Condon?"
Rosser could not restrain a weary exhalation. "Mrs. Tavenner, did your husband ask you to question me?"
A low cry was torn from her. "You—you think that?"
"What am I to believe? I had a disagreement with your husband this afternoon. He then learned my identity."
"What is that identity?" she demanded fiercely.
"You name it, Mrs. Tavenner."
"All right, I will. You're a killer. They—they say the worst in the history of the West. You hide behind a lawman's badge and wreck your personal vendetta against the people you dislike and that means anyone who dares to oppose you and your desires."
"You say that, Mrs. Tavenner, because your husband told you so and you love your husband."
"It's the truth, isn't it?"
"The truth," Rosser said, "is that I hate men of the stripe of Riley Condon."
"And Guy?"
"Guy," Rosser said, no longer trying to conceal his contempt. "Guy Tavenner is a cheap unhorned gambler. A man who uses his wife to—"
Her hand came up in the semidarkness and gave his cheek a resounding slap.
"How dare you talk to me like that!" Her hand came up to strike him again, but he reached out and caught it. He found it a surprisingly strong hand—and warm.
He released her hand and, turning, walked into the hotel.
THE next morning he stepped out upon the veranda and looked down the street. His eye caught sight of the livery stable diagonally across the street and on a sudden impulse he crossed to it. A rheumy-eyed older man sitting in a cubbyhole just inside the door. He blinked owlishly as Rosser stopped in the door.
"I stopped in to look at one that Joe Leach said he'd sell me. A bay 16½ hands high. Joe said it was the fastest horse in the territory."
"That's Alexander."
The night hostler got to his feet and led Rosser to a box stall. "Here he is. Leach doesn't think any more of this horse than he does his right arm. Man plunked down $400 for him last week and Leach wouldn't even listen."
